Had Methuselah Known Women Don't Know Us
rnhardt's Grave
e Smallest Mouse
—By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1921.

Save money, put it at compound terest, for your children's sake. Joseph S. McCoy, government ctuary, has prepared, for Frank nsey's Herald, exact figures on hat $1 might have meant to Methuselah, had the dollar been inested at 6 per cent. compound interest, when Methuselah was twenty-one. When Methuselah died, aged 969, the single dollar would have grown to more than 577 sextillions of dollars, a sum shown in twenty-four figures. We cannot conceive such a sum. The interest on it, for part of a second, would pay off the whole world's war debts.

There will be rich families in America 100 years from now, if nothing interferes with compound interest. Many could start today with a nest egg of ten to one hundred millions.

Dr. Hennen, "prominent, six feet three, prosperous," etc., has found, like other men, that women lack understanding of the finer shades of masculine emotion. Says he, of his wife, "Mrs. Hennen understood everything until I asked her to get a divorce, because I wanted to marry another woman. Then she got mad."

Unreasonable Mrs. Hennen, and how many there are like her. Dr. Hennen is related by marriage to the Vanderbilt family, which makes his views all the more important. At the critical moment Mrs. Hennen died—she was reasonable in that, anyhow. Everything will go smoothly, unless the next Mrs. Hennen also proves unreasonable when she reaches forty-five.

How, where would you like to be buried, "low by the beach, almost within the wild ocean's reach," or "under a slab of granite so gray" like Ben Bolt's sweet Alice?

Some like to be scattered in ashes from the Liberty Statue—she must be tired of that, Napoleon lies under the gilt dome of the Invalides, with his marshals around him.

For the Great Alexander was planned a statue of himself carved from a mountain of rock so big that a city could be built in the outstretched hand.

Sarah Bernhardt has a good idea. She has bought a small, deserted, rocky island in the stormy bay of Biscay, where Foch's basque ancestors developed their courage hunting whales, three thousand years ago. On that island, which has a little harbor on the land side, Bernhardt, will build a white Carrara marble statue of herself, with arms outstretched. A light shining from the head at night will invite her neighbors, the fishermen, to come in from the stormy waters. You could hardly suggest a better idea. She is making the statue herself.

Man lives in the infinite, and fusses in the finite, hence two things interest him—bigness and littleness. Anybody would walk a long way to see the biggest whale in the world, and as far to see the new shrew mouse, smallest mammal on our continent, just captured by agents of the Marshall Field Museum.

It is as big as a bumble bee, knows as much as the average animal, has several children at a time, and will gladly die for any one of them. It has a perfect arrangement of heart, lungs, liver, brain and all the rest. Nothing is big, nothing is little. In one corner of that mouse's eyes a million living things can find room to live, breed and die.

Lewiston, Maine, is excited about a child healer, three years old. The young lady, Charlotte Ladiver, touches the suffering person, "lisps a short prayer," and the suffering ends. Coughs, colds, burning, itching pain have been cured, and Grandma Thibault, old and once bent with rheumatism, now stands straight and cured.

All this affords intense satisfaction to many, profit to a few, probably and no harm is done except that a small group absorbs an additional dose of superstition.

$30,000 DAMAGE BY FIRE IN PORTLAND

Portland, Me., Nov. 1.—More than fifty employes of the Thomas Laughlin Company, manufacturers of ship chandlery hardware, were given a two weeks' involuntary vacation by a fire which swept through several departments of the plant early today. A loss of at least $30,000 was indicated.

U.S. SOLDIERS HANGED WITHOUT COURT-MARTIAL, SAYS SENATOR

STARTLING CHARGES MADE BY WATSON

Says Men in France Were Brutally Slain by Officers; Inquiry Ordered

By Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Charges by Senator Watson, Democrat, of Georgia, that American soldiers serving in France were hanged without court-martial or other form of trial precipitated a heated debate today in the Senate.

Chairman Wadsworth of the Military Committee invited the Georgia Senator to appear before his committee to produce evidence in support of his charges.

Senator Watson produced a small photograph of an alleged hanging and insisted that his charges were true. Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, said he had examined the photograph and had been told by two former service men that the charges were true, but that he was "unwilling to proceed on such evidence."

SAYS HE HAS PROOF.

In suggestion by a special committee, into the charges by Watson was ordered today by the Senate by unanimous vote.

The committee will be appointed by the president of the Senate, and Senator Watson will be invited before it to produce proof.

"How many Senators know," Senator Watson asked, "that a private soldier was frequently shot by his officers because of some complaint against an officer insolence; and that they had gallows upon which men were hanged, day after day, without court-martial or any other form of trial? I had and have the photograph of one of those gallows, upon which twenty-one white boys had already been executed at sunrise when the photograph was taken, and there were others waiting in the camp jails to be hanged morning after morning."

Senator Wadsworth declared that the charge could not be "lightly brushed aside" nor "excused on the ground of excitability in debate." He demanded that Senator Watson produce the proof.

CAN PRODUCE WITNESSES.

Senator Watson replied that he represented the "demand" and would "tell you foot to foot and shoulder to shoulder" that he was the equal of any senator and assumed full responsibility for his charges. He said he would refuse to go before any committee with his evidence, or to produce his witnesses unless they were guaranteed immunity.

"I mean every word I said," he added, "and I did not overrun the pictures. I have a photograph of the gallows upon which white soldiers were hanged, and I can produce witnesses who saw it, if it is safe for them to appear."

U.S. Consulate in Lisbon Bombed

Lisbon, Nov. 1 (By the Associated Press).—A bomb exploded this morning on the staircase at the American consulate here. No damage was done. The police attribute the outrage to the agitation in connection with the cases of Sacco and Vanzetti.

Washington, Nov. 1 (By the Associated Press).—A dispatch from Consul-General Hollis at Lisbon, received early today at the State Department, reported the bomb explosion in the consulate there.

The consul-general said the Portuguese government was investigating energetically and would make efforts to apprehend those responsible for the affair. Only trifling damage was reported.

The message said that a note protesting the conviction of Vanzetti and Sacco in Massachusetts was slipped beneath the door and a few moments later the explosion occurred.

3 CAPTURED AS ROBBERS AFTER ROXBURY CHASE

74-Year-Old Man Is Knocked Down by 4 Bandits in Tailor's Shop

Three alleged robbers were arrested after a half-mile chase through the streets of Roxbury today, following a bold attempt to hold up an aged man in a tailor shop on Harold street.

Frank Bornstein, 14 years old, was paying a bill in a shop at No. 128 Harold street when four young men entered, knocked him down and tried to steal his money. He shouted and they ran.

Patrolman John F. McCarthy of the Dudley street station gave chase and arrested three young men charged with the attempted robbery after a half-mile run.

They said they were Peter Skehel, No. 2894 Washington street, Roxbury; James Holden and William McCann, Jamaica Plain. A fourth man is sought.

BRITAIN PAYS UP $300,000,000 LOAN

New York, Nov. 1.—Repayment of $300,000,000, borrowed in the New York market in 1916, was completed by the British government today with the redemption of between $51,000,000 and $52,000,000 in 5½ per cent. bonds. The payment today, made through J. P. Morgan & Co., fiscal agents for the British government, completed liquidation of a maturity of $150,000,000. The first half of the big loan matured and was paid on November 1, 1919.

SIX IN RACE WOULD BE NEW BEDFORD'S MAYOR

New Bedford, Nov. 1—The total number of candidates for mayor of New Bedford at the next city election today reached six when George M. Libbey, former state representative, announced his candidacy. Two others prominent in state politics have just entered the field, both former Senator Nathaniel F. Sowle and Senator John Hallisey taking out nomination papers.

SOUTH END WOMAN KILLED BY AUTO TRUCK

Alice F. Wrapp, fifty-two years old, of No. 195 East Canton street, South End, was struck by an auto truck while crossing Washington and Brookline streets last evening. She was taken to the City Hospital suffering from a fracture of the skull and died shortly afterward. The machine was operated by Anthony Luggero of Union Park street, South End, and owned by Bussiceli Brothers of Northern avenue.

VICTIMS OF HEADACHE POWDER

Physician Finds Watertown Couple Unconscious for 3 Days Through Overdose

Dr. Charles Emerson, town physician of Watertown, today reported having found Henry Looskin and his wife, Katherine Norton Looskin, lying unconscious in bed at their house in the rear of No. 14 Summer street, Watertown, late last night.

Both were under the influence of a headache powder which they have been in the habit of taking for months.

They had been unconscious for three days, according to their children, Agnes, 18 years old, James, 14, and Catherine 11.

Mrs. Looskin, before her marriage twenty years ago, was regarded as one of the belles of Milford and comes of a good family.

Her husband has been out of work for some time, but formerly was employed as a driver's helper by the Nonantun Coal Company.

Neighbors became alarmed at the long-continued unconsciousness of the two and called in the doctor. Aaron Looskin was found at a nearby corner after midnight. She was dressed in a soldier's uniform and was with a party of Hallowe'en merrymakers. The other two children also were away from home.

According to the official report of the physician, conditions in the Looskin house were deplorable. Even the bed clothing had been sold and the husband and wife were lying on the bare mattress of their bed completely disrobed, but covered with old coats and ragged clothing.

The house had not been cleaned for months, the doctor said.

The man regained partial consciousness, but could give no account of himself. The woman was past speaking. Both were taken to the Watertown Hospital for treatment. The children will be cared for by the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

COREY HILL HOSPITAL PROTEST

Brookline Residents Attack Conditions at Institutions and Demand Probe

Charging that four private hospitals on Corey Hill, Brookline, are becoming public nuisances, residents of the section today presented a petition to the Brookline Board of Health asking that the objectionable institutions be investigated.

The hospitals named were:

Summit Hospital.
Rainbow Sanitarium.
Mrs. Carter's Home.
Hillier Hospital in the Jerome Jones Mansion.

Leading residents of Corey Hill signed the petition, which was indorsed by the Town Improvement Committee of the Brookline Civic Society.

It makes the following allegations:

1—That dead bodies, covered only with sheets, have been seen on the porch of one hospital.

2—That a male person has been seen in the parlor of another.

3—That mentally defective and even insane persons from the hospitals wander about the hill.

4—That a man was permitted to jump out of the window of one of the hospitals.

5—That women scream all night.

7—That men from various hospitals who should not have been at liberty have wandered about the community, making noises like animals and that one such man forced his way into a private

FOCH WILDLY CHEERED AS HE GREETS SOLDIERS HE LED

By Associated Press.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 1.—Delegates to the American Legion national convention today extended an official greeting to Foch and Pershing.

It was not until Marshal Foch walked down the stage with General Pershing, however, that all of the crowd caught sight of Marshal Foch.

The appearance of the marshal and General Pershing was the signal for the wildest enthusiasm.

The two stood side by side in the centre of the platform and were cheered vociferously for three minutes. General Pershing smiled, bit his under lip and motioned the crowd to sit down.

It only cheered louder. The marshall stood looking at the crowd. He bowed his head a moment, and his eyes were moist.

Mrs. Georges Cowden then sang "The Star Spangled Banner." When she had finished Marshal Foch turned and thanked her.

Commander John G. Emery presented "Our Comrade of the Legion," General John J. Pershing, to the convention.

The standards of Missouri and Nebraska, Texas and Pennsylvania were carried to the stage and placed behind General Pershing.

This afternoon the Legion's big parade was held with thousands of Legionnaires, members of the Grand Army of the Republic and Spanish War Veterans, and others in the line of march.

Marshal Foch, principal guest of

DORCHESTER WIDOW WHO SHOT MAN, DRANK POISON

MRS. ROSE MENDISH

Mrs. Mendish, Dorchester storekeeper and widowed mother of a boy of 11 years, was treated by City Hospital doctors for poisoning soon after the shooting in Morris Hyanis' Roxbury home.

Hyanis was shot in the presence of his wife, to whom he declared his allegiance in the presence of "the other woman."

WIDOW SHOOTS MAN, AND THEN TAKES POISON

Wounded Roxbury Father of 3 Will Recover; Attacker May Not Live

Because Morris Hyanis of No. 4 Gordon street, Roxbury, loved his wife better than he did Mrs. Rose Mendish, thirty-five years old, of No. 55 Deering street, Dorchester, the young woman shot him through the elbow and then drank poison in the parlor of the Hyannis home, while Mrs. Hyanis looked on screaming.

Mrs. Mendish, who has been wildly infatuated with Hyanis for months, according to neighbors, appeared at the Hyanis home and asked to see him. He was sitting at a table in the living room of the house, with his wife on the other side when the girl entered.

Mrs. Mendish was horribly nervous and was unable to speak for some moments after she entered the room. At last she burst forth with:

"Which of us is it to be? Do you love this woman (pointing to Mrs. Hyanis) better than you do me?"

Hyanis said nothing, while his wife, who has known of the acquaintance her husband and Mrs. Mendish, looked appallingly at him.

"Morris," went on Mrs. Mendish, "Morris, tell me you love me better than you do her. I love you so much."

But Morris shook his head.

"No," he said, "I love my wife better."

"Well you shall not have her."

WALKOUT AFFECTS 8,000,000

Wagon Drivers Quit When Negotiations for New Agreement Fail

New York, Nov. 1.—Approximately eight million people in New York and surrounding cities found milk and cream supplies missing when they looked out their back doors this morning. The cause was a strike of the Milk Wagon Drivers' Union, voted last night when negotiations for a new working agreement failed.

The milk distributing corporations immediately began posting notices of their determination to put the "open shop" policy into effect in their business and advertised for men to take the strikers' places.

In the meantime milk and cream by the millions of quarts were piling up at railroad terminals in the affected area, with the distributors and city health authorities working hard to keep supplies moving to hospitals, nurseries, invalid homes and homes which are blessed with babies.

The remainder of the population, with the exception of a relatively small number of families served by independent dairies, was notified that it would have to step around the corner to the nearest grocery or distribution centre for a supply. Police guarded trucks were moving milk and cream to these points. Plans were being worked out to open distribution centres in public schools and other public places in the event the strike continued for a long time.

The area affected, in addition to Greater New York, included Newark, Jersey City, Hoboken and other New Jersey cities; the greater part of the State of Connecticut, most of the Long Island municipalities and a large part of Westchester County, New York. The normal consumption of the affected area exceeds 2,000,000 quarts a day.

More than 10,000 union men were present in Madison Square Garden when the strike vote was taken amid scenes of wild enthusiasm.

The drivers had waited in the big hall for nearly seven hours while their leaders conducted futile last minute negotiations with the milk conference board, representing the distributors. After balloting showed a vast preponderance of strike sentiment, the vote was made unanimous with a whoop.

The union leaders held out in the negotiations for a $5 weekly increase with two weeks annual vacation on full pay.

WITHDREW PROPOSED CUT.

The employers countered with a demand for a decrease in wages of 10 to 15 per cent., but eventually withdrew this demand and offered to sign an agreement similar to the expiring pact, without any pay reduction. This the union spokesmen declined to accept.

The strikers have agreed to maintain hospital deliveries and to care for the companies' horses during the strike, Health Commissioner Copeland of this city, however, has worked out plans for supplying all persons and institutions which are especially in need of milk, and today had men checking up to ascertain whether the union workers were making deliveries. Trucks were ready to rush milk to institutions that were missed.

PICKETS BOTHER WOMEN.

Many hospitals failed to receive their regular morning deliveries of milk. Some of them prepared to send ambulances to distribution centres.

Pickets bothered a queue of women and children standing in the rain before a milk station in Harlem. Efforts to induce the customers to go home caused a few minor disturbances. Police later ordered the pickets to keep a block away from the station.

Police headquarters ordered the emergency patrol system in effect at all stations. Additional police were assigned to milk storage depots and distribution points.

home and the bedroom of a sleeping girl.

All these conditions, say the petitioners, make the neighborhood an unfit place to bring up children and damage property on Corey Hill.

Among the signers are four persons who say they have already left the hill because of conditions.

The Brookline Board of Health, which is the Board of Selectmen, will probably deal with these multifarious charges at the next meeting.

PROMINENT SIGNERS.

Mrs. Horace L. Howe of the Brookline Civic Society was active in circulating the petition and reported little trouble in getting signatures.

Among the signers were Sanford L. Treadwell, Ralph Joslin, Dr. and Mrs. Robert T. Moffatt, Rev. Dr. Francis L. Stickland, professor of theology at Boston University, and Mrs. Strickland; Judge and Mrs. Thomas H. Dowd, the Misses Prendergast, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Day, Dr. George A. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Wright, Dudley L. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo B. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gray, Dr. and Mrs. Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. White, Mrs. Lucy Taylor, L. Barrows, G. Fred Durkee, H. E. Stein, Dr. Georgina Crosby, Gerald L. Parker, Chester Wing, Mr. Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kelsey, Jr., and Mrs. James Coyle and E. E. Keith.

The suit is still pending. Day's property adjoins that on which the hospital stands.

Foch and Other Leaders of Allied Forces Welcomed to Legion Convention

honor for the day, entered the convention hall from a side entrance and went to his box amid cheering, just as the convention was called to order.

He was preceded by a guard of Americans, holders of the Congressional Medal of Honor.

WELCOME TO LEADER.

"I most cordially greet you," he said, "not only recalling the affectionate relationship of other days, but also recognizing the patriotic unit that has grown out of those associations and the common purposes that exist to uphold faithfully those ideals that lie at the foundation of this great Republic of ours.

"M. Le Marechal the American Legion a peculiarly honored by your presence among us. We extend an equally cordial welcome to that splendid leader of Italy's victorious armies that crushed the military autocracy of Austria, General Diaz, and to the representative of the brave Belgian army, whose courage defied the slaughtering hordes of German militarism, General Jacques, and to the great captain who commanded the British naval forces, whose efficiency on the seas made the land victory possible, Admiral Lord Beatty. The people of America everywhere await to do you honor.

URGES PREPAREDNESS.

"Personally, I am extremely delighted to extend to you the greetings of the American armies that crossed the seas to fight beside you. I am also honored to speak for my friends and neighbors here in Missouri and accord you a most sincere welcome to this grand old State, where I was born and where I lived in boyhood."

General Pershing then turned his attention to the Legion and praised its campaigns for Americanism and kindred ideals. He urged the legion to continue its efforts to bring about a military force, representative of the people which in any future war will escape the results of unpreparedness that you suffered."

He urged that the Legion bend its efforts, also, toward obtaining all possible relief for incapacitated veterans of the war. He predicted that great good would result from the coming conference on armaments in Washington and that an understanding would be reached which would lessen the chances of war.

Bay State Delegates Split on Brackett

By CHARLES G. POWER.
Staff Correspondent of the Boston American.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 1.—At theadjourned caucus of the Massachusetts delegation to the American Legion convention, Raymond G. Brackett of Malden today received a push preferment as a candidate for vice-commander.

It was not made unanimous at a motion to do so was not supported. Colonel John Herbert, in reporting for the committee to consider the candidates for national officers, mentioned a West Virginia man as the only one heard of as a candidate for second place.

Delegate Quinn of Natick begged the Brackett boosters not to persist, but to await the developments of today in the national commandership. He criticised the delegation as lacking unity of purpose, as being anything but harmonious under the surface and uninformed on all important matters of the convention.

John P. Holland of East Boston refused bluntly to go on the strikers' steering committee, and William J. McGuinness of Lawrence decided he would not be bound by action of the caucus.

MUST WAIT 5 YEARS.

Chairman of South End Post, Malden; Neil of Back Bay Post, Boston, and Frank J. Scott, commander of the Everett Post of South Boston, mapped out the fight for Brackett. The latter said it would be at least five years before Massachusetts became in position at previous conventions could hope to make a successful play for the national commandership.

General Charles G. Dawes of "Hell and Maria" fame, President Harding's budget commissioner, was suggested today for national commander. It is understood that an attempt will be made to stampede the convention for him. In this Dawes candidacy the hand of the Republican National Administration is shown.

General Edward L. Logan is devoting all his spare time to an endeavor to have the committee in charge of the tour of Marshal Foch arrange it so that he can come to Boston on Sunday afternoon, the 13th, the day previous to his official reception in Boston by the Legion, the State and the city.

The Boston general has learned that Foch will spend the best part of Sunday with the bishop of Hartford. He has made strong appeals to secure permission for a Boston delegation of the Legion to escort the great soldier of France to Boston late on Sunday afternoon and has not given up hope of being successful in his quest.

FORBES FACES CENSURE.

A determined effort is being made and probably will be successful to induce Mrs. Edwards, wife of General Edwards, to accept a nomination for Senior Vice-Commander of the Woman's Auxiliary. The Massachusetts women wanted her to run for National Commander, but she did not feel able to give time to the duties of the position that would be required. The demand for her to accept some distinction is general. delegates from several States assuring her of their support if she agrees to being placed in nomination.

John F. Holland of East Boston made a strong appeal to have the Massachusetts members of the resolutions committee pledged to support a resolution that is to be proposed by the fourteen liaison officers of the American Legion to the United States Veterans' Bureau, which will severely censure the management of that bureau by Colonel Charles R. Forbes.

He said the liaison officers report without exception that they have found the provisions of the Sweet Bill being violated both in letter and spirit. The law is supposed to decenter the work of the bureau and to rule the disabled in the districts.

Holland, who is Legion liaison officer for the first district, said that local ratings has not gone into effect but that officials at Washington are reserving the right to amend ratings at their pleasure and to make rulings that absolutely contravene the purpose of the law.

Colonel Herbert said no one doubted the word of Holland and that all probably would support the resolution, but he thought it would be wiser to defer formal action until the resolution could be seen in definite form. There was no objection to that suggestion.

Commander Duane reported that he had told the National Executive Committee its report on hospitalization was a frame and that he would oppose it on the floor of the convention.

Beatty and Jacques Address Auxiliary

By Associated Press.

Matters to come before the convention include: Framing a constitution, deciding the membership qualifications and election of officers.

The convention was opened by John G. Emery, national commander of the Legion. There were speeches by Admiral Beatty of Great Britain and General Jacques of Belgium.

After the auxiliary is fully organized, it is planned that measures for the improvement of the condition of disabled soldiers will be taken up. Hospitalization is to be one of the vital issues before the convention, it was said.

"Great Honor of My Life to Have Guided American Army to Victory," Says Foch

"Prodigious Efforts of United States Confounded Your Enemies," He Declares

By the Associated Press.

"Officers, non-commissioned officers and soldiers of the great American Army:

"My dear comrades of the American Legion:

"I cannot tell you how great is my satisfaction at finding myself amongst you, valiant soldiers of 1918, to live again our glorious memories. Three years ago, on the first of November, 1918, the entire American Army in France took up vigorously the pursuit of the defeated enemy and did not halt until the German surrender.

"Hour of glory for the American Army, a proper culmination for a military effort, prodigious alike in its intensity as in its rapidity. One and all, you have had your share in it. You may well be proud!

"In creating in mass to the call to arms of your government, in equipping, training and organizing yourselves as rapidly as possible, you had in view only the purpose to take your place as soon as possible in the line of battle.

"In numbers: Eighteen months after the declaration of war by the United States on Germany, the American army had passed from effectives of 9,500 officers and 126,000 men to 180,000 officers and 3,500,000 men.

"Effort of organization: If, in the month of March, 1918, you had in France but six divisions, six months later you had 41, of which 24 engaged in battle.

Obstacles Swept Away by Nation

"Effort in instruction: In order to have officers, non-commissioned officers and men rapidly trained, you multiplied in America, as in France, your schools and camps, which became centres of progress and activity.

"In order to arm you and camp you the American manufacturers worked without respite and supplied all your needs.

"Admirable effort also in transportation. You swept away every obstacle which interfered with bringing your units from the centres of instruction to the ports of embarkation.

"In France you improved the ports of debarkation, created new installations, increased the traffic of the railroad system by work of all kinds and multiplied your storehouses and hospitals.

"Your shipyards were organized for intensive production in such a way that when the war ended you utilized for your ocean transportation almost four millions of marine tonnage, instead of 94,000 available at the beginning of the war.

"And meanwhile your splendid war fleet, thanks to its vigilance and its fine military qualities, protected with an efficiency to which I am happy to pay tribute here, the transportation of your troops and material.

"A prodigious effort on the part of your entire nation's intelligence, will power and energy! A prodigious effort which has filled your associates with admiration and gratitude and confounded your enemy!

Lauds Spirit of Fighting Forces

"This splendid spirit of an entire nation we find again on the battlefields of France, where it was blazoned in the admirable virtues of bravery and heroism.

"It was the spirit of the Second and Third American Army Divisions which, one month later took part in the battle of the Marne and distinguished themselves immediately in the operations around Chateau Thierry and in Belleau Wood. Again it was the spirit of those five divisions which, on the 18th of July, participated in the victorious counter-offensive of the Tenth and Sixth French Armies between the Aisne and the Marne and contributed in great measure to that victory.

"Finally, it was that spirit which animated all the American army when on the twenty-fourth of July, General Pershing formed your splendid units under his own direct command.

"On the twelfth of September, 1918, the first American army delivered its first battle on the soil of France. It dislodged the enemy from the St. Mihiel salient, where he had entrenched himself for nearly four years, threw him back beyond the foot of the hills of the Meuse. From the very first the American army entered into glory. How many further laurels was it yet to win?

"The St. Mihiel operation was nearly ended when the American army attacked on a new front. On the twenty-fifth of September it was engaged on the right wing of the vast allied offensive. The point of direction assigned to it was Mezieres, on the Meuse.

"Deployed from the left bank of the Meuse to the eastern confines of Champagne, it had three army corps in line on a front of nearly forty kilometers.

As the Final Blow Was Given to Foe

"Before it stretched the region of the Argonne, formidable emplacement of the German defence, a wooded terrain, rugged, difficult in its nature, and rendered more so by all the defensive organisations which had been accumulated there during the last four years.

"Nothing could discourage or check your army. It threw itself with generous ardor into the immense melee. The task was a rude one, but it was carried out to a thorough finish.

"Fighting without respite night and day for a month, advancing in spite of the pitfalls and the counter-attacks of the enemy, it succeeded, by pure force of tenacity and heroism, in liberating the wild region of the Argonne.

"After St. Mihiel it could now inscribe proudly upon its banners the name of the Argonne!

"On the 16th of October this great task finished, it joined hands with the Fourth French army in the defile of Grand Pre.

"In consequence of this, the enemy's resistance was severely shaken; the moment had arrived to give him the final blow.

"On the first of November, just three years ago today, the first American army again attacked and, in a splendid advance, reached Buzancy, penetrating the German line for more than ten kilometers.

"The enemy, this time, retired definitely; the Stars and Stripes at once took up the pursuit and, six days later, floated victoriously over the Meuse, reconquered.

"After St. Mihiel, after the Argonne, the American banners now bore the name of Meuse!

"In a few months you had taken 45,000 prisoners and 1,400 cannon from the enemy.

"Glory to the first American army, glory also to those of your division which, distributed among the French and British armies, contributed in great measure to the final success, whether with the fifth French army to the north-west of Rheims or with the fourth French army, in which they carried in magnificent assault, the strong positions of Orfeuilles; or again, with the British armies for the capture of the famous Hindenburg Line or with the troops of armies of Flanders, pursuing the enemy upon the road to Brussels.

"During this time your second army impatiently awaited to attack in its turn in the direction of Metz, which already was stretching her arms to us for deliverance; but, harassed and defeated the enemy laid down his arms.

"A solemn hour, which compensated all the sacrifices freely consented for the cause of right.

"It is you who have made these sacrifices. More than 75,000 of your countrymen were buried in the soil of France! May they rest in peace. Your French brothers in arms watch over them.

"Glory to you who survive them and who enjoy victorious peace. You may well be proud of your past exploits.

"Your country had asked of you to lay low a redoubtable enemy. You have placed him at your mercy and after having assured every guarantee for the liberty of our peoples, you have imposed upon him the peace which our governments have dictated. Has not your task been completely fulfilled?

"As for me, the great honor of my life will be to have guided along the road of victory the American army of 1918, which was a real grand army, beginning with its commander."

MARSHAL FOCH.

SINN FEIN AND PREMIER AT WORK AGAIN

Backed by Parliament, Lloyd George Calls Irish Delegates to Conference

By Associated Press.

London, Nov. 1.—Peace negotiations between representatives of the British governments and delegates of the Dail Eireann were resumed at the official home of Prime Minister Lloyd George, this morning.

Michael Collins and Arthur Griffith, representing the Dail Eireann, arrived in Downing street at eleven o'clock, accompanied by Erskine Childers, secretary to the Irish delegation. It was said they went there in response to a message from Lloyd George.

The meeting lasted 35 minutes, after which, it was stated, another committee meeting was being held. The government representatives present were Lloyd George, Austin Chamberlain and Lord Birkenhead.

OLD STORY TO THEM.

Inquiries in Irish quarters today showed that Lloyd George's address before the House of Commons last night had done nothing in the direction of precipitating a hitch. Sinn Feiners could find nothing in his words with which they were not familiar from the outset.

In addition Lloyd George did not force the allegiance issue more strongly than in the past, notwithstanding President De Valera's telegram to Pope Benedict. The vital issues of allegiance, naval security, payment of debts and the avoidance of war in Ulster were all points which had been debated by the four negotiators without a break in the conference.

Ulster remained today the chief difficulty to be overcome, but the Prime Minister's reference in his address to the cost of failure was taken as the exertion of pressure on Ulster to reach an accommodation with Southern Ireland.

PLEBISCITE PROPOSED.

Liberal terms, from the southern point of view, were said to have been offered, and the suggestion was made that before Ulster's refusal to be its state was permitted to break off the negotiations, with all the costly consequences that would be its event, the six northeastern counties of should, as a whole or in detail, be given a chance to hold a plebiscite on peace or war.

Examination of the vote taken last night gave no sign of a spread of the "Unionist revolt." Of 501 members present, 456 voted, 8 being paired. Ulster members did not vote, and Brigadier-General H. Conyers Surtees, one of the Ulstermen who signed the proposed motion of censure, answered "present" when his name was called.

HALTS SERVICE CHARGE FOR WORCESTER GAS

The Worcester County Gas Company was today ordered not to impose a "service charge" of $1 a month for every meter used by its customers. The State Department of Public Utilities declared in a formal decision that the proposed charge is unwarranted. The company charges $2 per 1,000 cubic feet for gas.

NEGROES GET PERMIT TO HAVE OWN BANK

The petition of colored residents of the South End and Roxbury for authority to establish a co-operative bank was today granted by the board of Bank Incorporation. It will be known as the South End Co-operative Bank and will be near the junction of Tremont and Northampton streets.

"DAN" CASWELL SAYS HE'S THROUGH WITH STAGE BEAUTIES

REFUSES TO HEED PLEA OF WIFE

Daniel Ovis Caswell, boy millionaire of Cleveland, O., who joined his bride of a year, beautiful Jessie Reed of the "Follies," at a Hallowe'en party at the Hotel Lenox last night and breakfasted with her today on the eve of his divorce from her, is through with stage beauties.

He said so today with the candor and emphasis of youth while puffing a cigarette in bed in his apartment at the Copley Plaza.

"Dan" admitted that Jessie took him aside during the Hallowe'en revelries and with arms clasped about his neck pleaded for a reconciliation, but Caswell told her his mind was made up and that he would lose no time wiping out their shattered romance in the courts.

JILTED OTHER GIRL.

And in telling of his plans to annul his marriage to Jessie Reed which resulted from a rapid-fire courtship of twenty-four hours, Caswell today made public for the first time how his infatuation for the Ziegfeld Follies beauty caused him to ignore his engagement to Miss Virginia Van Sant of St. Paul, eighteen-year-old daughter of the former Governor of Minnesota.

Caswell had hurried from Boston to New York to buy an engagement ring for Miss Van Sant, with whom he planned to elope from her private school in Greenwich, Ct.

He said he placed the ring in the safe at the Copley-Plaza and that in his sudden infatuation for Jessie Reed he presented her with the solitaire next morning.

Caswell admitted today, in almost the same breath, that he announced his resolution never to marry another stage girl, that he was not "fed up on marriage by any means."

"I'll probably marry again," he added with a grin. "You know how impulsive I am. But it will be a home type of girl next time. I'm done with stage beauties. Too darned popular. Get a chap in no end of complications.

"I've located in New York for the present. Intend to take up some sort of business. Don't know what. Haven't decided what pursuit; and I don't intend to become a hermit.

"NOT AS WIVES."

"Nothing like that. And don't mistake me about stage girls. I'm not throwing them down. Good fellows. Know loads of them and like them; but—not as wives.

"Strange how it met Jessie on the train yesterday. Purely by chance. She didn't know I was aboard and I didn't know she was until we spied each other in the Pullman. And the funniest part of it was that I met her under very similar circumstances a year ago when I thought it was a case of love at first sight. The story parts like that, but woke up, though. Wiser now.

"Last year I went to the show in Boston, attended a Hallowe'en party with her, invited her to breakfast the next day, proposed and we eloped to Pawtucket and were married by an Episcopal minister.

"Then Fate puts us together on a train from New York yesterday, just a year later, we attend a Hallowe'en party and I am to breakfast with her at the Lenox at noon today.

DIDN'T FALL FOR IT.

"Can you beat it. But I'm adamant about that reconciliation stuff. Jessie threw her arms around me last night and tried to patch up matters, but I didn't fall for it. I'm going through with this thing. That's why I came to Boston.

"I wish to look up certain records. My personal counsel in New York will institute divorce or annulment proceedings right away. I intend to go to Maine for a brief stay before returning to New York, but this afternoon I intend to go to Pawtucket for a copy of our marriage license.

"Jessie never told me about having had another husband, or that she was the mother of a daughter I never saw. The little girl must be a pretty old now. I don't know where she is. I haven't contributed a penny to Jessie's support since we separated.

"We didn't live together more than a few weeks. When I read she had been married before the jig was up.

"NOT A CHANCE."

"She went her way and I went mine. We have run into each other from time to time and we have even dined together just as we did last night, but there isn't a chance for a peace pact or anything like that.

"She has had her friends and I have mine. I have other girl friends and don't make any bones about it, but if I happen to be seen more than once with any girl on Fifth avenue or Broadway, somebody starts an engagement rumor. Jessie is a good fellow, but she duped me.

"She gave her age as twenty-two when we were married and stated that she had never been married before. Those were lies. She actually is twenty-nine years of age and was twenty-eight when we were married. I was silly to give my address as New York. If I had given Cleveland I could have obtained a divorce much easier. In New York one must prove infidelity.

"I don't want to make any fuss for Jessie. All I seek is annulment of our marriage and I shall be satisfied. I intend to make it as swift and easy as possible for both. Nobody put me up to this. I am acting entirely on my own initiative.

STEADIER NOW.

"My folks naturally were fussed up over my marriage to Jessie. You know how I kicked up in Boston a year ago, like an unbroken colt. Well, I'm steadier now I think.

"I honestly did not intend to have anything to do with Jessie or her friends here last night. It was all built accidentally, my meeting her there and everything. She and her chums had gone to spend Sunday in New York.

"I thought the 'Follies' had left Boston. We had a pleasant chat. Then I ran into friends in the Plaza lobby and took a stroll and I wound up by dropping in at the Colonial. Sat in the lower right hand box.

"It was some time before the gang on the stage discovered me and then they gave me a razz. Jessie was the first to spy me. She kept saying, 'Hello Dannie sweetie,' and such stuff over the footlights.

RECOGNIZED VOICE.

"After the show a party of us went to the Lenox and had a private celebration. When I was turning in the night telephone operator at the Copley Plaza recognized my voice when I gave her orders to call me at 10:30.

"She told me she was the same girl who called Miss Reed for me a year before to join me in breakfast and she gave Jessie a similar invitation today. Can you beat that for repetition?"

Young Caswell is twenty-two. He admitted today that he was expelled from Williams College "and about every other school" he went to. He is a rugged, likeable chap, with a boyish face and blonde hair. His father was the late Daniel A. Caswell, millionaire real estate operator of Cleveland.

Jessie Reed has figured in a chain of love affairs. Her first husband, from whom she was divorced, was Ollie Delroy, a vaudeville actor, who induced her to take up a stage career. She was the star witness at the trial of her husband when tried for murder in a "triangle" scandal in Texas, the State of her birth.

Daniel O. Caswell, Cleveland millionaire, and Jessie Reed, Follies show girl, who met on a train while Caswell was on the way to Pawtucket to obtain annullment of their marriage. He made an engagement to take her to a party and now friends are wondering if they will patch things up.

CAPTAIN GORDON SUSPENDED FROM DUTY

Chief of Police McBride Files Charges Against Tufts' Right Hand Man

Chief of Police John J. McBride, of Cambridge today filed formal charges of misconduct against Police Captain Herbert Gordon and suspended him from the department.

This action is an echo of the recent trial of Nathan A. Tufts, which resulted in the removal of Tufts from the office of District Attorney of Middlesex County.

Gordon was for years assigned to special duty in Tufts' office and his name was coupled with that of the District Attorney in several of the complaints aired at the latter's trial.

The accused captain will be tried by a police trial board of three captains Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. The names of the three who will try him have not been made public and will not be until the proceedings start.

Chief McBride groups his charges as follows:

1—That Gordon was engaged in private business while supposed to be performing police duty.

2—That he was concerned in an attempt to get Louis (Poco) Bennett to put money for a parole from East Cambridge jail.

3—That he used his official position to get evidence in the Lovell divorce case.

All these charges figure in the Tufts trial, and in all of them Gordon's name figured frequently.

Charge 1 concerns the allegation that Gordon got Theresa Sears, one of the "Mishawum Manor" girls, to sign a "release," which was used as part of the "properties" in the alleged $100,000 shake-down of motion picture men.

One of the points the State tried to make in the Tufts trial was that these "releases" were bogus and that the indignant husbands and fathers who used to terrify the motion picture men were "straw men."

"POCO" BENNETT CASE.

Charge two concerns with the allegation that Gordon was engaged in a plan to influence District Attorney Tufts to release Louis (Poco) Bennett from jail in connection with which "Poco" was to pay $1,000 through the Corcoran brothers, attendants at the jail.

Charge three concerns one of the most colorful and sensational bits of testimony in the trial of Tufts—that concerning Catherine Lord and James H. Monroe.

It was testified that Gordon and State Police Officer Silas Smith went to a Cambridge apartment and found Monroe, a wealthy man, and Mrs. Lord, whose husband was seeking a divorce, together.

Lord did obtain his divorce, according to the testimony, and at one time Monroe and the woman were threatened with criminal prosecution on statutory grounds, some witnesses said.

CRITICISED BY COURT.

Monroe finally paid $12,000 to get out of his difficulties with Mrs. Lord, the evidence showed.

In its ruling on the Tufts case the Supreme Court criticised Gordon by indirection, as follows: "Tufts is not found responsible for the conduct of Police Captain Gordon in lending his aid to the procurement of a New York divorce."

Following the Tufts trial and the removal of Tufts from office Captain Gordon was withdrawn from special duty at the District Attorney's office. This was done at the instance of Attorney-General J. Weston Allen, who also suggested that Gordon be removed.

3 INJURED, 2 AUTOS SMASHED IN WILD CHASE

Three persons were injured and two cars damaged in a wild race by Patrolman William L. Abbott of the West Roxbury station to overhaul a car operated by Andrew DeLuca of 19 Sagewhaldt street, Cambridge. The fleeting DeLuca machine collided with a car at Beech and Poplar streets, West Roxbury, throwing out DeLuca and his two companions, John J. Kiley, Bank street, and William Hamilton, Arnold circle, both of Cambridge. They received contusions of the face, head and body. Abbott's car crashed into the stalled machine.

ERRING PASTOR WINS WIFE'S FORGIVENESS

Mrs. Bowen Realizes His "Weakness for Women," But Gives Him Another Chance

Canaan, N. H., Nov. 1.—"A weakness for women, pretty and otherwise, has been the great bane of contention that has brought discord and unhappiness into our lives for years.

"This is not the first time that my husband has got into difficulty through the fair sex, but it will be the last if he wants me to stand by him."

Smiling through tears of sorrow and disappointment, Mrs. C. H. Bowen, wife of Pastor Bowen, who has been ousted from the Mahida Congregational Mission of the General Assembly of God because of his self-confessed fondness for women members of his flock, thus declared her stand in the matter to a Boston American reporter.

"I shall stand by my husband through this difficulty and give him one more chance" said the patient wife, "but I cannot do it again.

"I feel that I should stay by him for his sake and for the sake of our daughter. Jesus would forgive him, and so shall I as long as he has confessed and repented.

BARES HER LIFE.

"I feel that my husband really is repentant now and that he will be true to me from now on. But that is for him and time to decide. Meanwhile I am trying to face the situation bravely and with courage. It is hard, harder than you can ever understand. I realize that most women would not, but that does not influence me."

Then Mrs. Bowen bared her past life while she tried in vain to keep back the tears as she recalled the existence of the past twenty-seven years of her life with Pastor Bowen, who is now in disgrace with the majority of the members of his flock in this old New Hampshire town.

"My husband has always had this great weakness for women," said Mrs. Bowen.

"It has been the rock that has shattered our happiness before this and I thought that I had learned the past, for it makes one bitter even when they have forgiven. We were married in Bradelph, Vt., twenty-seven years ago. I was then in my twenties, and my husband was considerably older.

DESERTED FOR ANOTHER.

"We were happy for a time, but after seven years of married life, and there lay the trials of our life. My husband did not remain true to me and left me destitute. Other men and women were concerned. It made my life sad.

"After many years of living in various towns and cities, he deserted me and another woman—left me alone at Randolph with my daughter. He came down here to Canaan and joined the Congregational Mission and I started at home in Randolph and made a living for myself and child by sewing. It was hard, but I did it.

"Finally, I was persuaded to forgive him and return to him, and it was not until last June that we resumed living together as man and wife, a period of nineteen long years. I thought that all would be well, we had our little home and he was head of the mission and he seemed to be on the right track.

"Then came the last horrible act in our little drama, and I, the innocent wife, am now forced to be looked at in wonder, and sometimes scorn, by the women who wonder why I do it. However, I think I am doing the only Christian thing, and am willing this last time to bear it.

DAUGHTER IS LOYAL.

"My husband is getting old and it may be that it will not be for many more years that he will be here, and if nothing more happens to mar our lives I may be able to make his declining years happy ones."

Not only does Mrs. Bowen forgive the erring pastor but his eighteen-year-old daughter, Mary, also stands by him and rises to his defence.

"None can say a word against my father to me," said Mary. "He is my best pal and I love him and always have loved him and always will."

Pastor Bowen after resigning his post as head of the Mission fled to the forests fearing he would be tarred and feathered by male members of his former flock.

"I was weak, I fell and I have suffered and have repented," the pastor told the reporter. "What more can I do? All of us have moments of weakness and I had mine. But I feel that I paid dearly when I was stumbling through the woods while evading the threatened tarring and feathering.

"My good wife will forgive me, and I do not think it will occur again. Part of my flock has stayed by me and is now worshipping with me. Of course you know these things are often exaggerated a great deal. I intend to stay right here at my own place."

While many members of the former pastor's congregation believe in the announcement that Bowen has repented, there is one who looks askance.

She is Mrs. Effie Graham of North Canaan, the woman who created a furore in the mission when she proclaimed aloud at the meeting that she and the pastor had been lovers. "Pure bunk," is the way she speaks of his repentance.

"Bowen has not repented," she said, "if he had really repented he would be leading a different life than he is leading now."

NATICK MEN ACCUSED UNDER WHITE SLAVE LAW

Vincenzo Petralla of View Hill street and Dominico Parenti of Green Hill street, Natick, were bound over to the Federal Grand Jury under the Mann white slave act on a charge that they transported a young woman from Natick to Boston and Lawrence. They both pleaded not guilty when arraigned before United States Commissioner Archibald C. Matteson of Providence. Preliminary trials were waived. They were bailed in bonds of $3,000 each. The men were arrested by Federal agents after much difficulty.

screamed the excited woman. "I won't let you."

Then reaching into the hand bag she carried Mrs. Mendish drew out a small, cheap pistol and fired one shot. The bullet struck Hyanis just above the elbow and he dropped to the floor.

His wife cried aloud at the sound of the shot and ran to hide behind some curtains.

But the other woman fired only one shot. When she saw the man she worshipped writhing on the floor in agony she dropped the pistol and drew from the fatal handbag a small bottle of bichloride of mercury.

Before she could be stopped she had drained the contents and threw the bottle against the wall, where it was shattered.

Mrs. Mendish has been a widow for some eight or nine years. With an eleven-year-old son, George Aaron Mendish, she has been living in a furnished room in a Dorchester apartment.

The son told a reporter for the Boston American that his mother's acquaintance with Hyanis has extended over a period of five or six years. Mrs. Mendish operates a modest delicatessen store on Bowdoin street, in Dorchester, he said, near to a similar store which he said is owned and conducted by Hyanis.

Hyanis was a frequent visitor in Mrs. Mendish's store, the boy continued.

"I saw him in there lots of times," he said. "Sometimes he would come in to sell some meat or groceries, when mama's stock got low, and sometimes they would just stand there and talk.

"Last night," the lad went on, "mama went out and told me to go to bed and said she would be back by 10 o'clock. So I went to bed. When I woke up at 5 o'clock this morning she wasn't there. So I called up my grandpa and he told me to come over to his place, and I did. But I wish I knew where my mama is."

The boy's grandfather, Mrs. Mendish's father, is Solomon Rodman of No. 118 Harrishof street, Roxbury.

Rodman professed inability to understand the reasons for his daughter's act. He said he had been aware that she and Hyanis were well acquainted, but he had had no idea that Mrs. Mendish had ever entertained an infatuation for the man.

Meantime Mrs. Hyanis had been screaming for help, and neighbors came to her assistance. The police were notified, and Mrs. Mendish was hurried to the City Hospital, where an emetic was administered in the hope of neutralizing the effects of the poison.

DIVORCE WON BY MRS. BORDA FOR CRUELTY

Judge Scores Lawyer Husband for "Mental Anguish" and "Sordid" Conduct

Providence, Nov. 1.—Mrs. Avice Weed Sprague Borda, daughter-in-law of William Sprague, Civil War Governor of Rhode Island, and member of one of the wealthiest families in the State, has been awarded her freedom from Wenceslao Borda, wealthy Porto Rican planter and member of the New York bar.

In his decision, Judge J. Jerome Hahn of the Supreme Court, before whom the case came up for trial, found Borda guilty of gross cruelty and misbehavior as well as unlawful conduct with other women.

JUDGE FLAYS BORDA.

Borda was unmercifully flayed by the judge in his rescript. He was declared to have been guilty of making many statements "reflecting in the most cruel and inhuman manner" upon Mrs. Borda and upon her immediate family.

"The physical suffering caused by the use of brute force would have been mild, indeed, compared with the mental anguish caused by the words used and the occasions chosen for their use. They were such as in the nature of things would cause the deepest humiliation and mortification to Mrs. Borda," declared the judge.

Borda's conduct was branded as "sordid" by the court, which then proceeded to quote Borda's own words, in which he said that he had married Mrs. Borda for her money.

The court then took up the most unusual feature of Mrs. Borda's suit, in which she asked that Borda be given party in lyndield en his brother last night. His brother is earlier than he did.

When the mother of the dead man, Mrs. Bridget Davis, raised the curtain of her bedroom she was startled to see her son William, who was only six years old, lying in the alleyway. She notified the police and Patrolman Charles Fulton responded with a patrolman.

He worked on Davis without avail while other members of the family summoned Dr. Allen and Richardson, who pronounced the young man dead. Davis' physician had long had a subject to heart attacks. It was thought that friends at the party took him home in an automobile and that he was stricken while on his way to enter by the back door. The police are investigating.

FINDS HER SON DEAD IN ALLEY IN SOMERVILLE

William H. Davis, a salesman, n No. 37 Paulina street, West Somerville, was found dead in an alley way next to his home at an early hour today. He attended a Hallowe'en party in Lyndield en his brother last night. His brother is earlier than he did.

WEST END MAN IS ROBBED OF $6,500

Thieves Force Window From Fire-Escape and Lift Roll From Sleeping Victim

Salvatore Arria, a fruit dealer, was asleep in his room at No. 43 Normac street, West End, early today after a hard and successful day's work, when he was disturbed by a noise of a chair overturning in the kitchen.

Climbing out of bed he went into the next room, arriving just in time to see a thief, Salvatore's trousers clutched in his hand, disappearing through the window that led to the fire escape. Then Salvatore remembered that in the pockets of those trousers was more than $6,500 in cash, the receipts for two car loads of fruit he had sold yesterday.

He dashed after thief but was too late. Then he rushed back to his bedroom and grabbed his revolver. Kept for such emergencies. Running to the head of the fire escape Salvatore fired three shots after the retreating thief who, as he now saw, had joined a second robber.

Instead of hitting the men Salvatore's bullets merely added to their speed. The fruit dealer rushed down the front stairs and out into Normac street, where he was in time to see the thieves race round the nearest corner. Three more shots went after them but without avail.

Salvatore got a good look at the fleeing men and is certain he recognized them. His description of them tallies, say the police, with that of two men the authorities have been seeking for two days on another charge.

JOSEPHINE'S JEWELS FOR SALE IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 1.—The diamond and emerald earrings given by Napoleon to Empress Josephine were displayed for sale today by a Fifth avenue jeweler. Valued at more than $100,000, the gems are the only pieces of the Empress' rich collection that remain intact.

Josephine's jewels came into possession of the Beauharnais family and were handed down to a Beauharnais now a Russian Grand Duke. In financial stress he sold them to a Paris branch of the New York Jewel house.

COOLIDGE ENDORSES BOSTON AMERICAN'S CHRISTMAS BASKET FUND

NEED FOR AID IS GREAT

Calvin Coolidge, Vice-President of the United States, has indorsed in glowing words the Boston American Christmas Basket Fund which opened yesterday with a contribution of $1,000 from this newspaper.

The nation's Vice-President has personal knowledge of the great work done by the Christmas Fund of the Boston American. When he was Governor of Massachusetts he came in contact with the results accomplished by this worthy undertaking of the Boston American. That he fully realizes the vast amount of good cheer brought into the homes of thousands of Greater Boston families at Christmas through the medium of the fund is evidenced by the letter of indorsement from the Vice-President reproduced in another column.

URGES PEOPLE TO AID.

Mr. Coolidge not only urges the people of Boston and vicinity to contribute to the Fund, but he also strikes an interesting note when he says that the residents of this section who have so generously assisted in alleviating distress in foreign countries can be depended on to relieve suffering in their own district.

The indorsement of the Christmas Fund by a man or Vice-President Coolidge's standing is an indication of the merit of the work, as he is not in the habit of lending his moral support to such an undertaking unless he knows of the worthiness of the enterprise.

The Christmas Fund editor hopes to break last year's record so that hundreds more may be fed this Christmas. Last year $30,364.64 was contributed to the Fund to convey happiness to desolate homes. How much happiness that Fund spelled may be indicated by the figures compiled by the big grocery concern that packed the order.

40,000 FED IN HOMES.

Last Christmas fifty-two tons of food was distributed to 8,322 families and it was estimated that 40,000 persons were fed in their homes.

Measuring happiness by means of figures is a difficult process but they point the way. With a little imagination the reader may conjure up a picture of the homes made happy by these gifts of fine food.

The only limit to the number of needy families receiving food this season will be the amount of money contributed. Every year hundreds of applications for food have remained unfilled because of lack of funds. This year conditions will undoubtedly be much worse than at any time since the Fund started eight years ago.

Many families in Greater Boston have been hard hit this year on account of unemployment. Try as they might hundreds of persons have been unable to secure sufficient work to pay ordinary household bills. Fearing eviction if they did not pay rent, scores of these unfortunates have denied themselves food in order to remain in their tenements. While this condition will probably be greatly improved by next Spring the fact remains that thousands of people in this city and vicinity will have extremely meagre meals at Christmas if someone does not help them.

MAKE CHRISTMAS HAPPY

Families that have never known want are in need now, their savings having been drained during the period of unemployment of bread-winners. With everything going out and nothing coming in, it does not take long for the savings of a working man or woman to disappear in these days of high rents and other things.

So, dear reader, if you would like to lift the burden of sadness from the lives of unhappy mothers and undernourished children for one day—the day when all should be joyful—just send in your donation to the fund. No matter how small the contribution may be, it will be received with thanks and will be publicly acknowledged through the Boston American. It would be difficult for a person to find a better medium of helping the impoverished at Christmas than the American's Christmas Fund. Care is taken to spend the money wisely and to place the food in families that really need it.

If the reader could take a trip with one of the men or women assigned by the Christmas Fund Editor to inquire about cases he would not hesitate to contribute to the Fund.

Suppose you went with one of the good women who volunteered to assist us in the worthy charity to the home of a family such as we found last year. The family was located in Roxbury. It consisted of eight persons. A few days later one of the eight, a boy of fifteen, was removed to the Tuberculosis Hospital at Mattapan in a battle for life against the "great white plague."

TWO BEDS FOR EIGHT.

When the good woman, representing the Christmas Fund, entered the little four-room tenement to which this family of eight persons lived, she found an appalling condition of affairs. It is doubtful if a worse case of poverty could have been found in stricken Russia. The furniture in the house was a small kitchen stove, kitchen table, two beds, one of which was broken, a broken bu chest, and three pieces of worn-out carpet.

Pause for a moment, dear reader, and visualize that picture. Two beds for eight people to sleep on! As a matter of fact, only seven of the eight used the two beds, the father being content to sleep on the floor, on three pieces of faded carpet. He preferred that the children should sleep in the beds.

SOAP BOX CHAIRS.

Soap boxes served as chairs. When the Christmas Fund woman entered the tenement on Sunday morning, Indian meal was boiling on the stove. Dinner that day for the entire family consisted only of this Indian meal. There was no other food in the house, not even a loaf of bread.

Despite their extreme destitution the family had not given up faith in God. When the Boston American woman arrived at the tenement the mother was at church, and although the visit of the woman representing the Christmas Fund was an unexpected one, the tenement was immaculately clean, proof that the woman had done her best with what she had.

The husband was a clean-cut looking man who had been confined by tuberculosis for two years at a Middleboro hospital, and was earning only a boy's wage, because of inability to do heavy work.

INTENDED TO KILL SELF.

This family was but one of many assisted by the Christmas Fund. This case was multiplied by many others where the destitution was nearly as extreme. The Christmas Fund Editor was told by a woman whose family he was assisted that she was so despondent she was planning to commit suicide on the day our assistance arrived.

The Christmas Fund workers try to put as much heart interest into their labor of love as possible. They do not care what the religion, nationality, color, or politics of the persons applying for food is. They do not ask needy families why they do not apply to relatives for aid or why they did not save their money when young. Only one test is applied, and that is —DOES THE FAMILY NEED FOOD? The Boston American hopes that not a child in Greater Boston will be hungry on Christmas Day. It desires that every needy boy and girl as well as their parents shall have a good substantial dinner on this great holiday.

Contribution should be made payable only to Boston American Christmas Basket Fund, No. 30 Summer street, Boston (8), Mass.

TRAIN YOUR HAIR AS AN ACTRESS DOES

No class of people devotes as much time to beauty as do actresses, and no class must be more careful to retain and develop their charms. Inquiry develops the information that in hair care they find it dangerous to shampoo with any make(d)ft) hair cleanser. The majority say that to have the best hair wash and scalp stimulator at a cost of about three cents, one need only get a package of cantbrex from your druggist; dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and your shampoo is ready. This makes enough shampoo liquid to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. After its use the hair dries rapidly, with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are quickly dissolved and entirely disappear when you rinse the hair. After this your hair will be so fluffy it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.—Advertisement.

Vice-President's Letter Endorsing Fund

THE VICE-PRESIDENT'S CHAMBER,
WASHINGTON.

Oct. 25, 1921.

To the Editor of the Boston American,
Boston, Massachusetts.

My dear Sir:-

I am very glad to know that your newspaper intends to provide again for a Christmas Basket Fund and it is a pleasure to me to add my word of endorsement of the plan as I have done in past years. The people of Boston and vicinity have contributed with the greatest generosity to the relief of suffering and distress in foreign countries and I know that they can be counted upon to relieve those cases which exist in their own City. Those in charge of the fund are in a position to know where these cases exist and I hope that our people will take this means of giving happiness to many homes which otherwise they could not reach.

Very truly yours,

Calvin Coolidge

MARBLEHEAD LIKELY TO KEEP FORT SEWALL

Marblehead, Nov. 1.—Residents of this town have been practically assured that Fort Sewall will remain as a local reservation. For many years this property has been one of the attractive places of the town. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and Congressman A. Piatt Andrew are said to have signified their intentions to block any move that might be made to dispose of the property.

CHILD PLAYING WITH MATCHES BADLY BURNED

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 1.—Aliette Goudreault, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Goudreault of the West Side, was taken to a hospital with severe burns about her body when she set her clothing afire playing with matches. Her mother, who wrapped her in a coat, was severely burned about the hands.

GENERAL MARCH RETIRES FROM ARMY SERVICE

Resigns After 30 Years' Active Military Duty With Valorous Record

By Universal Service.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Major-General Peyton C. March has retired from active service, upon his own request, after more than thirty years' service. Since July 1, General March has been on leave of absence traveling in Europe.

General March requested his retirement June 14, 1921, when he was chief of staff. Secretary of War Weeks notified the general of the President's acceptance of his request in a letter in which he said:

"I regret that you have decided to take this action because I am well aware of your value to the service. I especially wish to mention your success in directing the transportation of troops to Europe during the war, which was a service of great magnitude and in which you accomplished really remarkable results."

During the World War General March was appointed to the grade of general and made chief of staff. For his services during the World War he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal.

General March participated in the Spanish-American War in the Philippines during the years of 1898-99, and in the Philippine insurrection during the years of 1899-1901. When a lieutenant, he was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action before Manila on August 13, 1898.

ALLEGED FRENCH WAR BRIDE BIGAMIST HELD

Springfield, Nov. 1.—Louis H. Taylor, World War veteran, waived examination on bigamy charges in District Court. He was bound over to the grand jury December term. Bail of $1,000 was not furnished. Taylor was arrested last month on complaint of his French bride, Josephine Le Forie. At the time he was employed as a letter carrier in Bridgeport, Ct. His home is in Westfield.

MARY GARDEN WILL KEEP ON SINGING

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Mary Garden will continue to sing for her living while acting as director of the Chicago Opera Company.

"Of course, I am going to sing," she said. "Twice a week. How do you suppose I would earn my living if I didn't sing. Why, I would starve to death as a director."

WAGES OF 1,400 CUT AT LAWRENCE PLANT

Lawrence, Nov. 1.—Fourteen hundred employes of the Davis & Furber Machine Company received a cut in wages this week. According to officials at the plant, which has been in operation on a four-day schedule for four months, the cut is the second one this year. The plant went on a five-day schedule yesterday.

Lila Lee Not to Wed Gilbert

New York, Nov. 1.—Lila Lee, movie actress, came to the fore once more with the announcement that the press agents have failed to give the public the facts. She and her mother both deny the "report" that the pretty actress is to marry John Gilbert, also a film actor, in Los Angeles soon. There is nothing to the story, says Miss Lee, although "John is a nice young man."

X-RAY BURNING OF 55 MILL MEN IS MYSTERY

Miltonnegue, Nov. 1.—Mystery still surrounds the burning of fifty-five men employes by an X-ray Saturday at the Strathmore Paper Mills. Colonel B. A. Franklin, president of the company, and other officials, refuse to talk. The men were burned while undergoing X-ray examination by a New York physician in accordance with public health bureau instructions supposedly for cancer.

KEENE SCHOOLBOY HURT BY ACCIDENT

Keene, N. H., Nov. 1.—John Woodbury, a fifteen-year-old high school freshman, is at the Elliot City Hospital and is not expected to live as a result of being run down by an automobile driven by Charles Medvedofsky, a high school senior. His skull was fractured. Woodbury was riding a bicycle on Washington street when struck.

PELLETIER IS TO INVADE CHARLESTOWN

Opens Campaign Tomorrow Night in Home District of John R. Murphy

The opening of District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier's campaign for Mayor will be marked by an invasion of John R. Murphy's home district tomorrow night, when Mr. Pelletier will deliver his first strictly political speech at the ward room, Lexington and Bunker Hill streets, Charlestown.

At this first public rally, h[illegible] in his interests, the district attorn[illegible] is expected to sound the key-note of his forthcoming campaign. He has announced that he intends to handle men and measures without gloves. The Good Government Association, the Loyal Coalition, the Union Club, the Watch and Ward Society and Mr. Murphy's candidacy are among the subjects announced for attack.

His selection of Mr. Murphy's home district for the opening of his campaign has aroused a great deal of interest among political observers, indicating to many that Mr. Pelletier intends to wage a vigorous fight to capture the Murphy stronghold.

Bernard F. McMackin will preside, and speakers, in addition to the district attorney, will include Senator John J. Cary, Dorchester; Senator Thomas H. Gregg, Charlestown; Representative Thomas M. Joyce, Roxbury, and Representatives William P. Hickey, South Boston.

Local issues, it has been announced by the district attorney, will receive attention at his hands in every section of the city.

STORM TO SWEEP COAST, SAYS FORECASTER

New York, Nov. 1.—Warning of a southeast storm from Eastport, Me., to Delaware breakwater and a southwest storm from Delaware Breakwater south to Cape Hatteras was issued today by the Weather Bureau. The storm of marked intensity central over Eastern Tennessee is moving northeastward, the warning said, predicting shifting of increasing Southerly winds to Northwest gales by Wednesday morning, with heavy rain and thick weather.

BOSTON WOMEN SPONSOR MOVE FOR YOUTHS

Eager to Aid Youngsters Forced Out of School at Early Age

By HAZEL CANNING.

Wanted—Fourteen "fathers," for fourteen bright, beautiful, promising youngsters, twelve years old or thereabouts.

Wanted, fourteen men of vision and belief in great childhood, to whom the love of a boy of twelve will mean enough to pull on their heart strings, and unlock their ears and sympathy, all to the end that fourteen blessed youngsters may be saved for society, as they should be saved.

Wanted, fourteen "fathers," or big brothers, who will educate, train, advise and father fourteen boys through the period of their advanced education. Here's the story:

Mrs. L. R. G. Crandon of No. 10 Lime street, wife of Dr. L. R. G. Crandon, Boston surgeon, is the little woman who is looking for those fourteen fathers. Working with her is Mrs. Roland Baker, wife of Postmaster Baker. Mrs. Crandon already knows where the youngsters are. And has sent out her heart and her sympathizing hand, and done all one woman can do, to "father" all of them. Now the time comes when her hand must be strengthened, and real "fathers" found. Just let her tell her story herself.

$6500 COST FOR EACH.

"Did you ever consider," asks Mrs. Crandon, "how many thousands of children are turned out, each year, to go to work, so soon as their grammar school course is finished? Some of these children may be wards of State or city; others, hundreds of them, are in homes, which little consider them, and so each year, school doors close forbiddingly on thousands of wistful, childish faces, of little boys who want to be somebody; who want an education, and who, because they have no money, are set at the first work that can be found for them.

"Now, the right to an education he can take is the inalienable right of every American boy. It isn't charity—to give it to him. It's just wise economics—saving an educated man for the State where, uneducated, he would be an ignorant, discontented, misplaced citizen.

"That's the stand that Mrs. Baker and I take, irretrievably.

"We want each 'father'—or big brother—call it what you will—to give $500 for the care and training of his particular boy. Now, I don't want any "father" to give me that $500. I want him to spend it himself, on the clothes, schooling, board and upkeep of his own youngster, selected personally by himself.

"We can furnish the bright boys. Our fourteen boys have been examined by experts. I know them all and they are so very bright and so very promising that it were a genuine tragedy to throw their precious little lives away, by taking them from school and putting them to low-paid labor, so we want to enlist the help of Boston bachelors—or married men, if they only will help.

"The 'father' may come to my house and choose his child. To be sure, we cannot guarantee that his boy will like him, but if papa behaves himself—probably sonny will.

WOMAN'S BRIEF SERMON.

"I'd like to preach a little sermon to all comfortably off, unattached men, of years fit for fatherhood, I'd like to say to them:

"Mr. Man, are you bored with life? Do you know the way to get over the ennui? Find some young interest! You give money to clogies and lems, perhaps you have spent your good dollars on inanimate things aplenty, things that do not grow up and stand not in the land, and honor you for your training. And you have grown very bored indeed. Now—good sir, adopt one of our boys, who, just at present, very much needs a father's care and care and support.

"For this, please sir, is work of the finer—work of all time. Thieves cannot take from you education for that child, nor moth nor rust corrupt it. A youngster who looks at the future with wistful eyes and wonders if he's going to find his father."

This, in part, is what one enthusiastic little woman would say to fourteen potential "fathers," if only she could meet them face to face. This is what she would say to fatners of fourteen bright youngsters, waiting, wistfulness in their hearts, till the "father" comes along and tells them:

"Now, sonny, from this time on, till you're through school, you're mine! I'll educate you; I'll advise you best I can. You must help yourself, too, and you must try, on your part, sonny, as I shall try to do mine. After all, young Master Twelve-Year-Old you're a pretty fine boy, and I'm glad I'm your father."

LETTER-WRITER IS WARNED BY O'CONNOR

Author of Anonymous Epistles Scored by Candidate; Plans for Rallies

Charles S. O'Connor, candidate for Mayor, speaking at house rallies in the South End, Dorchester and South Boston, issued a warning against anonymous letters that are being sent out regarding his candidacy.

"I want to warn the public against the underhanded methods being used by an opponent in the matter of sending out anonymous letters. I would advise the sender not to be as bitter as usual or as sarcastic as generally and to abstain from quoting Shakespeare because the people of Boston know the style of this candidate too well to be deceived.

"It would be far better for this 'mysterious' letter writer to pay more attention to his own campaign instead of trying to stem the avalanche of votes turning to me. The effort is childish and unworthy of a serious campaign. The people of the city are too interested in the momentous issues of the campaign to be trifled with."

Mr. O'Connor will open an intensive speaking campaign Thursday night with a meeting at Central Hall, East Boston, and on Friday night with a rally at the Frothingham School. Each night thereafter the candidate will address a big district rally and from then to a dozen lesser affairs throughout the city.

Several men and women have offered their services as speakers at Mr. O'Connor's rallies.

GIRL BURNED TO DEATH AT HALLOWE'EN

Participation in the traditional merrymaking of Hallowe'en cost Anna McDonnell, six years old, of No. 20 Ophir street, Jamaica Plain, her life. The child was burned to death as a result of a pumpkin lantern, which she was carrying, igniting her clothing.

The little girl was standing with her brother James, nine years old, at Ophir and Washington streets, when the candle flame set fire to her clothing.

Her brother tried in vain to hold her and beat out the flames but the hysterical victim broke from his grasp and ran through the street to her home, fanning her blazing garments until her entire body was enveloped by fire.

Reaching home she rushed into the arms of her mother, Mrs. Anna McDonnell. The mother and the child's grandfather, Miles Dalton, put out the flames, burning their hands in the operation.

40 GIRLS LURED TO HOUSE AND ATTACKED

Startling Revelations Made by Victims in Charges Against Lawrence Men

Lawrence, Nov. 1.—Revelations of a startling nature regarding the operations of a group of men who are claimed to have been systematically enticing young girls and attacking them, were made during a session of Lawrence District Court here.

About forty girls, whose ages range upwards from twelve years are involved in the alleged improper actions of four men.

William Mitchell, John Holmes, Samuel Tompaccho and Tony Sullanti, were arraigned. A tenement in Lowell street, was used by the men, it was claimed, as a headquarters. To this tenement girls were said to have been lured and attacked. In some instances, the men gave the girls money for foibles and to go to the theatres. It was shown by the prosecution, and girls of tender years were given drinks.

GIRLS TELL STORY.

The girls told of the methods by which they were enticed to the tenement. The police say they are unable to induce some of the victims to come to court. Some parents are ignorant of the actions of their daughters.

Judge Frederic Chandler sentenced Mitchell to three months in the House of Correction on a charge of maintaining a disorderly house and 30 days for assault. Holmes was fined $20 on a charge of assault. Tompaccho, who gave his age as seventeen, and who is claimed by the police to have been the ringleader of the group, was held for a further hearing, with the suggestion that he be bound over to the grand jury. Sullanti, charged with assault, was held for the grand jury in $2500.

VICTIM THREATENED.

The ages of the men ranged from sixty-two years down. Other men involved are now being sought, but one of these, to avoid publicity, will marry the young women with whom they were involved, it is said. one of the girls in testifying against the alleged ringleader, said she had been forced to submit under penalty of being shot, a revolver having been flourished on several occasions. She had visited the tenement where the attacks took place two and three times a week.

In Almost Every City There Is One Store Called "The BOSTON STORE"

Hovey's Good Storekeeping Eighty Years Ago Supplied Much of the Original Inspiration —and Still Does

YEARS and years ago, Hovey's—and later, others of the older Boston Stores, introduced methods that were the foundation of the modern department store, as we know it in America today.

Soon stores in other cities which laid the claim to being the most modern and up-to-date took unto themselves the name of "The Boston Store."

The Hovey Store has always felt the responsibility for being the example—and even today merchants from all over the United States come to Boston—to Hovey's—to learn more about good storekeeping, and Hovey's continues to point the way.

So, if the Hovey store has a good name for being a good store, it isn't something that "just happened," but is the result of our constant endeavors to make this store good enough for our good public.

(In October the sales of the Hovey Store were more than 40% in excess of October, 1920)

10 PROVIDENCE FIREMEN HURT IN CRASH

Heavy Truck Rams Telegraph Pole Answering Alarm for Hallow'en Prank

Providence, Nov. 1.—Ten firemen were hurt and an East Providence fire truck damaged when the machine swerved and skidded while on the way to a fire set by boys at a Hallowe'en party early today.

The truck, with Lieutenant Warren Reynolds at the steering wheel, was dashing down Massasoit avenue on its way to Dexter Farm, where a haytrick was blazing and menacing the farmhouse and barn, when at a curve in the road the rear wheels swirved and the rear end of the machine crashed into a little heap of rocks left by a road repair gang.

All the firemen of the crew were hurled into the road, with the exception of Reynolds who managed to cling to the steering wheel despite the fact that his hands had been crushed between the wheel and the pole.

Hoseman Charles J. Roderick sustained the fracture of five ribs and suffered other injuries, including multiple cuts and bruises.

The other men on the truck, all of whom suffered more or less painful injuries, were Captain Charles Simmons, Elmer Simmons, Fred Reid, William Sullivan, Fred Harris, Elbert Nevins and Frederick Hancock.

WOMEN DEMAND COMPLETE DISARMING

May Picket Big Washington Parley to Boom Peace Society Program

By International News Service.

New York, Nov. 1.—Picketing of the President's Armament Conference by an army of women became a possibility today with the announcement of the Woman's Peace Society, a national organization, that it would use suffrage tactics to put through its program for complete disarmament.

A great parade of women, planned to be the biggest peace demonstration ever held in this country, will precede the organization's activities in Washington.

Thousands of women headed by Mrs. Henry Villard, daughter of William Lloyd Garrison, Zona Gale, the authoress and others of national fame will march through the streets of New York as the momentous conference opens in Washington.

Later an army of prominent women will descend on Washington to await developments.

"And, if we see that nothing is likely to come out of the conference, we shall stage a demonstration to emphasize our demands.

"We may picket, we may do many things," said Miss Elinor Byrns, vice-chairman of the Woman's Peace Society.

"We intend to make the gentlemen in the President's conference understand in an emphatic manner that the women want war ended and will not be satisfied with mere talk.

"We stand for complete disarmament and our program will be suffrage tactics. Like the women who fought for the equal suffrage amendment, we intend to go on fighting and arousing women throughout the world. We shall not hesitate to resort to militant tactics if others fail. We shall, however, give the President's conference a chance to do something."

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Lecture Course for Junior League Aspirants

By BETTY ALDEN

VERILY has the debutante of this season work—and work a-plenty—to do. That day is past when teas, dances and dinner parties comprised the program of the "just out" contingent. To be sure, the teas, the dances and the dinner parties are still in evidence, but they no longer monopolize the attention of the buds. Henceforth the latter must devote a goodly portion of their time to some worthy charity project—the Junior League has seen to that, and all provisional members of that organization must pass the acid test of real work before they are accepted as regular members.

At a recent meeting of the Junior League, Miss Isabella Mumford of Chestnut Hill, chairman of the provisional membership committee, outlined the course which the seventy-five-odd girls must take in order to obtain the coveted regular membership. Beginning on the 7th of this month a series of eight lectures will be given and each member must attend at least six of them and pass the examination in order to qualify as a full-fledged member of the Junior League.

The first lecture of the series, November 7, will be at the Roxbury Neighborhood House, when the debs will be addressed by Miss Dana Pouter; on November 10, Miss Baker will lecture before them at the outpatient department of the Massachusetts General Hospital; November 17, Miss Harvey at the Boston Dispensary on Bennet street; November 21, Mr. Raymond and Miss Woodbury, on "Family Welfare" on Hawkins street; November 28, Miss Rand on "Baby Hygiene" at the Dennison House; December 1, Miss Husted on "Tidecver League" at the Junior League rooms on Boylston street; December 5, on work with the blind, the time and place to be announced later; December 7, Miss May's troop of Girl Scout class at Blue Triangle Club in Mechanics Building; and on December 8 comes the examination in the League's rooms.

Since the opening of the clubhouse in the Thorndike Building, last Friday, the work of the Junior League is well under way. Already has Miss Ethel Cummings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Cummings, been elected debutante chairman and Peggy Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Porter of Beacon street, been chosen debutante vice-chairman of the provisional group.

Miss Eleanor Hunneman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carelton Hunneman of Brookline, who is chairman of the league's house committee, has informed the new members that hereafter luncheon and tea will be served each day, and it is hoped that frequent use will be made of the new rooms.

The first luncheon of the legislative committee comes a week from today, at 12:30, in the clubhouse of the league. Professor Robert De Courcey Ward of Harvard will speak on immigration, and immediately afterward, Mrs. Jackson Fleming will open her course in current events at the Copley-Plaza.

One of the many charity functions planned by society women of Boston is the large rummage sale to be given November 30 and December 1 for the benefit of the Sunnyside Day Nursery. Mrs. Frederick J. Bradlee, who is in charge of the sale, will be assisted by Mrs. C. H. W. Foster, Mrs. Harry Liebmann and Mrs. S. J. Barnet. Among those who are sponsoring the affair are Mmes. Francis H. Crowninshield, W. B. Alarich, George H. Swift, Charles F. Lyman, L. Cushing Goodhue, R. L. Russell and Miss Adeline D. Hooper.

Contributions sent to No. 14 Hancock street will be gratefully received any time before the sale.

Now that the Winter season is fast approaching, society folk are beginning to look forward to the various dances which help to make the season enjoyable.

Not the least important of these affairs are the dances of the Hundred Club, which will be held in the ball room of the State suite at the Copley-Plaza, beginning probably on November 22. Among the members of the club's executive board are Mrs. De Forest Danielson of Commonwealth avenue, Mrs. Horace Binney of Beacon street, Mrs. S. Parker Bremer of Marlboro street, Mrs. Frederick S. Whitwell of Marlboro street, Mrs. Charles Allen Porter of Beacon street, and Mrs. Charles J. White of Marlboro street.

Devotees of the art of terpsichore will have an opportunity to try the latest steps at the subscription assemblies which Ronald T. Lyman of Beacon street will give at the Copley-Plaza on December 1, December 16, January 5, January 20, February 9 and March 3. Besides these regular dances, there will be any number of charity balls to attract the smart set during the coming season.

Mrs. Richard M. Saltonstall is chairman of the committee in charge of the second annual ball of the Army and Navy Club, set for the night of January 18 in the Boat Armory. Mrs. Saltonstall, who has done splendid work for the Army and Navy Club, has the following committee to help her: Mmes. Charles Francis Adams 2nd, William Sturgis, Hooper Lothrop, Edwin S. Webster, George W. Wheelwright, Jr., John Balch, Abbott Cleaves and Miss Lavinia Newell.

Betty Alden.

Mrs. Walter I. Badger, Jr., will do her share to making a success of the Copley-Plaza grill room when the entire hotel is taken over by prominent women on the 16th of this month.

Random Notes of Prominent Folk in Town and Country

MRS. MONTGOMERY ROLLINS has returned to Brookline from her Summer place at Dover, N. H., and with her daughter, Sarah Rollins, who recently returned from a trip abroad, is occupying her home on Hammond street. Miss Rollins is one of this season's debutantes.

Mrs. Robert W. Lowell of Fairfield street, who is staying at Hot Springs, Va., recently entertained at dinner Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. de Gersdorff and Charles A. Brown of New York. Mrs. Frederick J. Bradlee, Jr., of Southboro is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. de Gersdorff.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. McQuillen are back at their home on Clinton Road, Brookline, after spending the Summer at Brewster.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Winthrop of Berkeley street have returned to town following a visit with Mr. Winthrop's mother, Mrs. Robert Winthrop of Walnut street, at her country estate in Lenox.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Cutler have closed their place at Marion after a long season, and are again settled in their Winter home on Upland Road, Brookline.

Mrs. Augustin H. Parker of "Nonanet Farm," Charles River, Mass., is among the Boston contingent at Hot Springs, Va.

Dr. and Mrs. Herman F. Vickery of Chestnut street have concluded their stay at Ipswich on the North Shore and have returned to Brookline.

Mr. and Mrs. John Richard Thorndike (Caroline Wyeth), who were married last June in New York, are occupying their new home at No. 3 Greenough street, Brookline, after spending a part of the Summer with Mr. Thorndike's mother, Mrs. John L. Thorndike at Beverly Farms. Mr. Thorndike formerly lived at "Thorncroft" in Southboro, Mass.

Following an extended trip abroad, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Fletcher and their daughter, Nina Fletcher, are again occupying their home on Philbrick Road in Brookline. Miss Fletcher is one of this year's debutantes, and will make her debut later in the season.

FIREBUG SETS TWO HOUSES IN FITCHBURG

Fitchburg, Nov. 1.—The lives of more than fifty persons were endangered here by two fires of incendiary origin in two lodging houses less than a block apart. Police are seeking a young man of twenty-one as the firebug. The first fire was in the Montreal House on Day street. A sleeping room was drenched with kerosene, a hole knocked between partitions to give the flames chance to spread upward, and the room was ablaze when Edward Lyons, a roomer, chanced to pass the door. The incendiary was leaving and made good his escape after a fight. A short time later the Chapman House, a few doors away, was fired.

MOTHER OF SIX GETS MEDAL AS LIFESAVER

Waltham Boy Hero Also Honored by Massachusetts Humane Society

Mary Gardino, mother of six children, of no. 12 Calvary street, Waltham, and Charlie Mayer, fourteen years old, of No. 166 Lexington street, Waltham, were today awarded the bronze medal for heroism in saving lives by the Massachusetts Humane Society.

On July 28 last, Mrs. Gardino, at the risk of her own life, waded out into the Charles River near the Newton Street Bridge and saved a small child caught in the current.

On the same day young Mayer jumped into the river and dragged to shore and safety two smaller children who were drowning.

RESCUES BLIND SISTER TRAPPED BY FLAMES

Pawtucket Hero Then Leads Mother and 3 Other Brothers and Sisters to Safety

Pawtucket, R. I., Nov. 2.—Trapped by flames and smoke in the basement of the old Pawtucket Opera House, High street, Blanche Giroard, eighteen years old and blind since birth, was rescued by her brother Ernest, early today.

Ernest Giroard, who is twenty-seven years old, is the eldest of the family of Mrs. Ella Giroard, and, after leading his blind sister to safety, returned through the smoke-filled hallways of the burning building and saved his three younger brothers and sisters, and his mother.

FAREWELL TO FIRE TOGS

MAYOR PETERS AND JOHN R. MURPHY.

Mr. Murphy, at the right, is saying farewell as fire commissioner to the Mayor. Mayor Peters apparently believes that his ex-commissioner will be his successor in office. While they were posing for this picture the Mayor advised newspaper men to preserve it and use it again as the old Mayor welcoming the new one to office.

ROMANCE DATES BACK TO HIGH SCHOOL DAYS

Clinton Girl to Wed Middleboro Man Who Served as Flyer in the War

Clinton, Nov. 1.—The alumnae of three colleges will be represented tonight among the guests at the wedding of Miss C. Marlitta Brockelman, graduate of Wellesley, class of 1913; Columbia University, post graduate 1919, and a leader of the younger social set in Clinton, to Spencer Perrin Martin of Middleboro, graduate of Exeter Academy and Yale University.

The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amien Brockelman, No. 105 Prescott street. Rev. James C. Duncan, pastor of the Unitarian Church, will officiate. The maid of honor will be Miss Helen M. Dwight of Holyoke and Florida, a classmate of the bride at both Wellesley and Columbia.

Miss Brockelman, following a course in business administration at Columbia, joined the publicity staff of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters in Boston. Her father is the proprietor of a chain of stores in Worcester county.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin of Coombs street, Middleboro. At Exeter he was captain of the hockey and baseball teams and was a letter man in football. He took a scientific course at Yale-Sheffield.

While at Yale he enlisted in December, 1917, in the aviation corps at Boston and was assigned to the School of Military Aeronautics at Princeton, N. J., later being transferred to Dallas, Tex. He trained at Lonoke, Ark., and was then assigned to duty at Santiago, but, while stationed there, the armistice was signed. He returned to his school studies shortly afterward.

SHOTS FIRED IN BACK BAY PURSUIT

Two Held for Theft of Auto After Exciting Chase in Railroad Yards

Edward A. Murphy and John J. Mahoney, both of Cambridge and both twenty years old, were arrested on the tracks of the Boston & Albany off Commonwealth avenue, today, after an exciting chase by the police, in which the officers fired half a dozen shots.

They were booked at the Back Bay Station charged with the theft of an automobile belonging to Victor Sousa, No. 128 Brooks street, East Boston.

Patrolman Norman J. Whitney, attached to the Brighton police, was on his way home from duty when he saw the machine at Massachusetts avenue and Boylston street, and recognized the number as one given out at roll call as stolen.

Jumping from his car he started after the auto. Two young men in the machine saw him coming and speeded up. Whitney commandeered a passing auto and gave chase. When he started shooting the two men in the fugitive car ran their machine to the curb and abandoned it, racing down the railroad tracks.

Whitney gave the alarm and the Back Bay police sent a squad of men to aid him. Murphy and Mahoney were found crouching behind a freight car.

WOMAN POISONED BY BICHLORIDE OF MERCURY

Leominster, Nov. 1.—Mrs. Vincenzo Cudone is dead as a result of drinking coffee in a cup which contained bichloride of mercury tablets. She was removed to a hospital, and a stomach pump used without success. Medical Examiner George P. Norton of Fitchburg pronounced death due to accidental poisoning.

MURPHY OUT AS HEAD OF FIRE DEPARTMENT

Peters Foresees Commissioner as Next Mayor at Formal Leave Taking

John R. Murphy, fire commissioner since the beginning of Mayor Peters' administration, quit that office today, and Joseph P. Manning, cigar manufacturer, became acting commissioner.

In closing that phase of his public life, Murphy, who is candidate for mayor, called upon Mayor Peters to say good-by.

"You tell your editors," said Mayor Peters to the reporters, "that they would be wise if they hold this picture and rub it at the picture of the old Mayor welcoming the new Mayor to office. It would go well."

Mayor Peters said that he hated to see Murphy drop the reins of the fire department, but added: "I am consoled by the thought that the taxpayers soon will have his services in a still higher capacity."

John R. Murphy's last act as fire commissioner of Boston was the appointment of three new firemen at the rate of $1,400 per year each. Mayor Peters today approved the appointment which had previously been certified by the department of civil service and registration. The new men are:

These appointments were necessary to fill the following vacancies: Hoseman Thomas P. Reilly, promoted; Assistant Engineer Garfield B. La Piante, pensioned, October 14, 1921; Hoseman James P. Rose, pensioned October 21, 1921.

DENIES SLAIN DAUGHTER HAD A QUARREL

Mrs. Oscar Knight, mother of twenty-two-year-old Althea Knight, of Malden, who was shot and killed by her sweetheart, George Dunham, in the Knight grocery store at No. 113 Ferry street, Malden, and who then turned the gun on himself, declared today that her daughter and Dunham did not quarrel at the Everett-Malden High School football game.

She declared neither she nor members of the Knight family could give any reason for Dunham's murder of her daughter and attempt on his own life.

Meantime Dunham, who is twenty-seven years old and lives at No. 5 Converse avenue, Malden, is hovering between life and death at the Malden Hospital. Doctors declare there is a little improvement in his condition. If his condition permits, physicians hope to perform a delicate brain operation today in an effort to extract the .32 calibre bullet imbedded in his brain.

Luscious Grapes Wrinkle into Raisins—Youth into Age

By VERNON RADCLIFFE

THE growing grape is nourished by a tendril and its skin is always smooth and velvety and firm. You never saw wrinkles on a grape.

Remove it from the vine, let the grape itself shrivel, and the skin shrinks into a network of wrinkles.

The Menace of Wrinkles

To-day, care against wrinkles has become increasingly necessary, increasingly hard. The most modern of discoveries is a safe, sure way of building up the underlying tissues and muscles into roundness and firmness. Such a well nourished skin resists wrinkles.

This new method stimulates the skin cells by bringing the blood to the surface. It actually tightens the relaxed and vital muscles into a firmness that you feel—all without resort to massage.

Old Treatments Fail

Unscientific, old-fashioned massage has made more old women than age. To parboil your skin with hot water or steam, and knead and maul the muscles of your face is bound to be injurious. Moreover, massaging does not remove dirt, foreign substance and impurities from the place where they do the real damage—down below the surface of the skin. Your beauty specialist will tell you so.

Mineralava—Cold Water—Face Finish

Mineralava, Nature's Beauty Clay, originated by Mrs. M. G. Scott and perfected by her through 23 years of scientific research and experiment, accomplishes two important results—it tightens sagging muscles and it withdraws impurities from the pores.

As it dries it contracts. You feel its medicinal ingredients penetrate the depths of the pores. You feel it withdraw foreign matter.

You feel the wrinkles smooth out. You feel the flabby skin made tight. You feel the cleansing, purifying blood tingle through each tiny vein.

Immediately, a blooming youthfulness glows and radiates from the cheeks. Mineralava Face Finish is a necessary skin food and tonic, acts as a mild bleach and forms a perfect base for your face powder. You apply it at the proper time, after the pores are cleansed.

Answers Modern Needs

Mineralava, daintily applied with a brush, is the one way to a good complexion and a smooth, firm skin—the best way—so startling, so revolutionary in idea, so different from any treatment that you have known, that you cannot afford not to know it—to try it.

Instead of being just one more thing to put on the face, to rub in the pores, Mineralava takes out. It cleanses—washes off—and is gone, all in twelve minutes.

Lasting Beauty of Complexion

Continue this treatment regularly twice a week and we guarantee, whether you are sixteen or sixty, a marked improvement in your complexion—removing blackheads, pimples, enlarged pores, blemishes of all kinds—preserving beauty and youthfulness—dispelling wrinkles.

Ask for Mineralava TO-DAY

Go to your druggist or department store to-day and ask for the Mineralava set containing fifteen home treatments. If yours has not got it, do not be satisfied with an imitation. Write Mrs. Scott herself. She will gladly inform you where it may be obtained. You may try Mineralava right away by mailing the coupon with 25c for the demonstration tube of two full treatments.

MANUFACTURER'S NOTE: Mineralava contains absolutely nothing which can harm the most delicate skin. We guarantee it, and will refund your money if you are not satisfied after one treatment. Scott's Preparations, Inc., 6 East 37th St., New York City.

"LAKME" WELL SUNG AT THE ARLINGTON

Clara Shean in Title Role Scores Great Success in Delibes' Opera

"Lakme," Delibes' excellent opera of the Orient, produced in English by the Boston Society of Singers, opened for the week at the Arlington Theatre last night.

The role of Lakme was well sung by Miss Clara Shear. The roles of Gerald and Frederick, officers of the British army in India, were sung by Rulon Robinson and Stanley Deacon respectively. Edward Orchard appeared in the role of Nilakantha, a Brahman priest. Edward Hasti appeared as Hadji, a Hindoo slave. Florence Tennyson as Ellen; Josephine Ellery as Rose, and Anna Ainslee as Mrs. Benson and Elva Boyden as Malika.

Miss Shear received considerable applause for her efforts, especially in the Bell song. Rulon Robinson also was generously applauded for his excellent tenor singing.

"Lakme," I sin opera built around the heroine Lakme, daughter of Nilakantha, a fanatical Hindoo, who hates the foreign invaders of his country. Gerald and Frederick, officers of the British army in India, while on the sacred grounds of a Hindoo temple with the two daughters of the viceroy, and are rebuked for their intrusion. All depart but Gerald, who remains to make some interesting sketches.

Lakme enters to make religious offerings, discovers Gerald and is attracted to the handsome youth, but tells him she fears that her father will seek vengeance upon him for his desecration of holy ground. Out of consideration for her he departs, and Nilkkantha arriving shortly after, declares that the trespasser must die. Under this edict Nilakantha's retainers depart in pursuit of Gerald.

Lakme, however, saves Gerald's life, and in order to escape the wrath of her father for so doing, she eats some flowers of deadly poison, dies in Gerald's arm. Just as her father and friends arrive.

JAMES BARTON MAKES A HIT AT MAJESTIC

James Barton, with his strong supporting company, headed a satisfying vaudeville bill at the Majestic Theatre last evening. Barton comes to Boston in Shubert vaudeville fresh from his success in the comedy role of the bogus Grand Duke Hubenstitch in "His Last Waltz," the Strauss operetta which has just closed a record season at the Century Theatre, New York. Some of the old timers will recall Barton as having made his Boston debut at the Old Howard, when he was nine years old, with an imitation of Joe Welch.

He made a pronounced hit here, and he does the same thing today. Cecil Chunningham also appeared as a star recruited from the musical comedy galaxy, his song and chatter pleasing. Clever were his applause, and showed he had not deteriorated since he wore the tenor crown in London and Petrograd—a worthy successor to Clarion.

Homer Dickinson and Gracie Deagon lent "pep" with their songs and dances. Brenda's "Golden Horse" was a marvel of posing. The Pedersen brothers illustrated the top notch of achievement on the flying rings.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

By FRIEDA DAVIS

THOUGH Charlie Chaplin's newest film, "The Idle Class," is the event of the week at the Modern and Beacon Theatres, Chaplin comes very near sharing honors with that other comedian, Will Rogers, in "A Poor Relation."

No one thought of trying to take away the former's laurels, for he is unique. His work carries a strength, an individuality that no other player is capable of giving us. "The Idle Class" is by no means up to "The Kid." In fact, it makes no pretence of being a super-feature, at least we don't think it does. If it does, it shouldn't.

Here we see Chaplin in two roles, that of his well-known tramp, and as an absent-minded, frock-coated, silk-hatted millionaire. Much of it is little short of slapstick, but somehow it seems a far cry from the usual rough-and-tumble films. There are scenes on a golf course that can be seen again and again, and appear just as funny the last time as the first. That's saying a lot.

Edna Purviance is the wife of the absent-minded man. She mistakes the tramp for her husband—the tramp being nothing loath—and then the fun begins.

There is little now to be said about Charlie Chaplin. He is the same actor who has brought the fans of two continents to a colossal phrase, to whom his feet, his face, his gestures and his pantomime are known the world over. He is a law unto himself, and his followers are legion.

CHARLEY CHAPLIN

As the lonely tramp he does his inimitable "shuffle" and plays with the same solemnity and pathos. As the millionaire he is not quite so good, although since much of his playing was done within the confines of a suit of armor, it is hardly fair to judge him.

PLACING ILL-JUDGED

We take decided exception to the placing of the bill at the Modern and Beacon Theatres this week. May McAvoy in "A Virginia Courtship," is given the headline position, leaving "A Poor Relation," starring Will Rogers, to lead off the performance.

"A Virginia Courtship" is a good picture. Rosalie Hinds usually are, but it is not to be considered in the same breath with "A Poor Relation." Miss McAvoy gave much promise under John S. Robertson's direction in "Sentimental Tommy," so much promise that she was immediately advanced to stardom. Since then she has failed to fulfill that promise. "Dangerous Hour" is the latest in a very remarkable direction. In "A Poor Relation" Rogers, the philosopher of Claremore, has adopted two little orphans. He, being next to nothing himself, is more than willing to share it with the children, and they get the best of the bargain every time. Through thick and thin—and it is mostly thin, for them—they stick together, always cheerful. To their credit, let it be said, there is nothing of the Pollyanna cheerfulness about it. It is merely good-humored.

"PASSING SHOW" IS FULL OF HUMOR

Annual Winter Garden Revue Draws Large Audience to the Shubert

Successful plays, not all of which have reached Boston, constitute the background of the "Passing Show of 1921," which made its bow at the Shubert Theatre here last night, after a long run in New York. Each is given its brief synopsis and generally in burlesque. Willie Howard, however, does a creditable bit of characterization in his depiction of Frank Bacon as "Lightnin'."

It was something of a novelty for a Boston audience last night to see the sketch of "Spanish Love," carried on partly in the auditorium and partly on the stage. Attention was divided between the antics of May Boley, as a buxom Carmen, and the efforts of Will H. Philbrick, pseudo-spectator, to break up the derby.

Other plays that come in for funmaking include "Little Old New York," "The Charm School," "The Bad Man," "The Rat," "The Lady of the Lamp," and "Nevada."

Willie and Eugene Howard are the stars of the new "Passing Show," and to them fall most of the comedy with occasional assistance from Mr. Philbrick and Miss Boley. The "Bigoletto Quartette" with the Howards, Miss Boley and Ina Hayward is an uproarious burlesque and the laughter from out front at times drowns the notes of the singers.

Coming Events

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—Ruth Chatterton will begin an engagement of only sixteen performances at the Hollis Street Theatre next Monday evening in "Mary Rose," Sir James M. Barrie's newest play, in which she scored a great success in the Empire Theatre, New York.

COLONIAL THEATRE—A. L. Erlanger's big musical comedy success, "Two Little Girls in Blue," will begin a brief engagement at the Colonial Theatre next Monday. The success of this attraction when it made its stage premiere at the same theatre, late last Spring, was most flattering.

TREMONT THEATRE — John Charles Thomas, America's foremost baritone, will appear in Charles Dillingham's production of the Jacobi-Le Baron operetta, "The Love Letter," for an engagement at the Tremont Theatre, beginning next Monday.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE—The Boston Opera House is going to be the scene of many brilliant social parties at the Wednesday and Saturday matinees, as well as in the evening, during the engagement of the San Carlo Opera, which begins its two weeks' subscription season on Thursday night. Mrs. J. Montgomery Sears, Mrs. George H. Monks, Robert Jordan, Mrs. S. Parker Bremer, Mrs. Frederick Winsor, Mrs. C. H. Bond, Mrs. H. H. Lawrence, Mrs. Maurice Curran, Mrs. Frederick Cotton, Mrs. E. B. Dane and Mrs. Harriet Fearing are among those who will entertain in boxes.

SELWYN THEATRE—Seats for the the initial Boston presentation of Mary Pickford's newest screen production, "Little Lord Fauntleroy," went on sale this morning at the box office of the Selwyn Theatre, where this costly and magnificent adaptation from Frances Hodgson Burnett's famous story begins a limited engagement on next Sunday afternoon, November 6.

"THE BAD MAN" MAKES LAUGHS AT PLYMOUTH

By FRED J. McISAAC, Dramatic Editor.

George Bernard Shaw would enjoy "The Bad Man."

The farce which Porter Emerson Brown has written for Holbrook Blinn, and which came to the Plymouth last night after a year or so on Broadway, may not have the literary value of a Shaw drama, but its satire is just as keen, and if it isn't so subtle, it is rather more effective.

For Mr. Brown is a bit impatient with Uncle Sam and the notions which pass for law in the U. S. A., and using a Mexican bandit as a mouthpiece he shows up a lot of quaint things that we take as a matter of course in regard to love, marriage, divorce and murder.

A PREPOSTEROUS BANDIT

Pancho Lopes, the bandit, is one of the most utterly preposterous characters ever put upon the stage. And his behavior is even more preposterous than his character. And the play itself is preposterous, but a wonderful piece of burlesque. And as delightful entertainment it at times passes anything I have seen this year.

Old George Bernard Shaw loves to get his audiences into a condition where they will accept a topsy-turvy state of affairs as quite fitting and proper. Arthur Browne, a very common name Browne, and he hails from Peabody, Mass., too, accomplishes the feat of persuading an audience that the murder of a husband is necessary and desirable so that his wife may marry another man without losing the wealth she enjoys as the spouse of the victim. I don't remember such a situation in any other play. Do you?

REMOVING A HUSBAND.

It seems that this husband is particularly mean, and the wife is not only abused and the lover is noble, and just back from the war. They are all tamely submitting to conventions when Lopes, the bandit, makes them prisoner. Our hero once did him a service and he is grateful. He wishes to make his benefactor happy.

He studies the situation and paves the way for wedding bells by blandly shooting the husband. The first shooting merely stuns him. He comes to life in the last act, and is wickedly endeavoring to assassinate the hero when Lopes returns and all ends again.

"How many times have I got to kill you, today?" demands the bandit petulantly.

During the entertainment this bandit airs his views on the U. S. A. in general and we got a pretty good laugh in broken Spanish. The audiences are so lost to shame they laugh heartily.

PLAYING WITH DYNAMITE.

When the villain says "I am an American citizen," and Lopes replies, "I don't care, I kill lots of American citizens," they even laugh at that. You might think author Browne was juggling dynamite but he knows his public.

Holbrook Blinn is particularly delightful as the bandit. A hearty, genuine and magnetic personality is needed to put this character across. Hood beyond the reach of police interference and Mr. Blinn supplies the needful.

Sidney Mason as an invalid Yankee, senile and garrulous, furnishes nearly as many laughs as Lopes. Leah Peck was winsome and pathetic as the wife and Miriam Collins was very amusing as the bouncing and unappreciated ingenue. Fred Tilden managed to behave so unpleasantly that his assassination was appreciated, which proves him an admirable heavy. It was a good cast.

FRENCH COMEDY HEADS BILL AT KEITH'S

Two old favorites of the dramatic stage, Arnold Daly and William Morris, appear together as the headline attraction at Keith's Theatre this week. They are cast in "The Van Dyck," a French comedy, admirably suited to their art. In the supporting roles are Walter F. Scott, Andre Benoit and Caesar Dominone. The play is adapted from the French by Cosmo Gordon Lennox.

Many other acts of variety and spice round out a fine bill. In these are seen: Ruth Roye, comedienne of syncopation; Florrie Millership and Al Gerard in "Slick-Slick," a revue of song and dance; Frank Ellis and company, in "A Dress Rehearsal"; Bert and Betty Wheeler, in "Bits of Everything"; Jim and Blanche Creighton, in "Mudtown Vaudeville"; Kirby, Quinn and Anger, the Three Original Regals; Roy and Arthur.

TREMONT THEATRE—"Little Old New York," with Genevieve Tobin, began its last week at the Tremont Theatre yesterday evening. Rida Johnson Young's comedy of old New York a century ago has proved one of the most delightful and acceptable offerings of the season.

COLONIAL THEATRE—The final week of "Ziegfeld's Follies" began at the Colonial Theatre last evening.

WILBUR THEATRE—"The Rose Girl," now in its third week at the Wilbur Theatre, opened to a packed house on Halloween merrymakers last night and the gay, bright, swiftmoving action of this "Cinderella" and musical comedy skipped along to almost continuous applause and laughter.

THE GLOBE THEATRE—This is the farewell week of D. W. Griffith's greatest screen achievement, "Way Down East," at the Globe Theatre, where the picture concludes its engagement on next Sunday evening, November 6.

TREMONT THEATRE—The story of a mother love divine is the theme of "Over the Hill," which yesterday began another big week of its engagement at the Tremont Temple, where this tensely human photo-drama is destined to establish new records in the motion picture history of Boston.

Other Theatres

GORDON THEATRE—Proof that Charlie Chaplin has rightfully been crowned king of comedians is given by "The Idle Class," his latest comedy success, which is being shown all this week at Gordon's Old South, Gordon's Olympia, Gordon's Bowdoin Sq. Olympia, Gordon's Central Sq. Theatre, Cambridge and Gordon's Olympia, Chelsea. Crowded houses greeted the first showing of the film at all three theatres yesterday. The two reels kept the audience in a constant gale of laughter.

GORDON'S STRAND — William de Mille has achieved another triumph in "After the Show," a Paramount picture, that appeared at the popular Scollay Square theatre yesterday. The film is entertaining, and in every way satisfying.

BOSTON THEATRE—Tom Mix, in "A Rough Diamond," and Charlie Chaplin, in "The Idle Class," are the two unusual features on the double-starred bill at the Boston Theatre this week.

GAYETY THEATRE—The burlesque attraction which began a week's engagement at the Gayety Theatre yesterday in "Town Scandals," presenting the favorite comedienne and comedian, Ethel Shutta, and a score of other noted performers.

One of the big hits of the show was the scene in New York's Chinatown. This scene was strikingly realistic in its setting, and the incident presented in this scene was intensely interesting.

WASHINGTON CASINO—The newest and most famous of Jean Bedini's burlesque productions, "Twinkle Twink," was the attraction that crowded Waldron's yesterday, beginning a week's engagement.

SOMERVILLE THEATRE — The manner in which "Blue Bonnet" was presented by the Somerville Players at their Davis Square playhouse, gave evidence that the management is particularly wise in its choice of plays for its clientele. "Blue Bonnet" was enthusiastically received by the company's distinguished itself by its excellent work. The play is a sparkling comedy of youth and adventure, cleverly constructed by George Scarborough.

CARLETON PLANS TO QUIT STAGE BEAUTY

Producer Claims Conduct of Wife Brought on Nervous Strain

New York, Nov. 1—Because beautiful Edith Day, an American musical comedy star, disappeared for several days after a dinner party given in London by the Duke of Manchester, Carle Carleton, theatrical producer and Edith's husband, is preparing to sue her for separation.

Pat Somerset, who plays opposite Miss Day in "Irene" and whose name has been coupled with hers in other ways, disappeared at the same time Somerset's wife, Margaret Bannerman, the Canadian actress, has sued her impressionable husband for divorce, naming Miss Day.

Carleton, who produced "Irene," and starred his wife in it both in this country and England, admitted today that he had instructed his lawyers to proceed against her.

"Our patience reached the breaking point after the party given by the Duke of Manchester," he said.

"Miss Day was one of the most popular of the women guests. Her escort was Somerset. She disappeared immediately and I did not see her for some days.

"I was so thoroughly upset that I almost suffered a nervous breakdown."

ATTEMPT LIFE OF EX-KING CHARLES

Hungarian Assassins Driven Off by Former Ruler's Bodyguard

By International News Service

Berlin, Nov. 1.—An attempt to assassinate former Emperor Charles has been made by Hungarian irregulars, according to a newspaper report from Vienna today.

The would-be assassins were driven off by Charles' bodyguard. Ever since his arrest Charles has professed fears that he would "meet the same fate as the late Czar of Russia."

The British gunboat to which Charles has been transferred will shortly move into Rumanian waters.

DEMOCRATS IN WANT OF NEW ISSUES

Are in Lesser Quandary at Meeting, However, Than G. O. P. With Too Many

By NORMAN HAPGOOD,
Boston American Staff Correspondent

Washington, Nov. 1.—In the meeting of the Democratic National Committee at St. Louis today much more is involved than a contest between the adherents of Mr. McAdoo and the adherents of Governor Cox. That line of cleavage is the easiest to express, but it is by no means sufficient to describe the contest.

Mr. McAdoo, in addition to his executive gifts, is a far seeing politician. He has tried to make his more vehement followers realize that the only thing for the National Committee to consider is effectiveness of organization. With the party all shot to pieces at the last election, and with no clear issue on the horizon, the political issues cannot yet be defined.

Nor can any guess be made about the standard-bearer for 1924. It is true that the more liberal forces in the party tend to centre around McAdoo, and that the conservative Democratic leaders permanently look on Underwood as their favorite. But it is also true that any man you talk with will say that all the signs today favor a dark horse as the Democratic candidate three years from now.

G. O. P. IS IN QUANDARY.

What issue can fairly be called a party issue today? Take foreign affairs first. We stayed, by a crushing majority, out of the League of Nations and out of the Versailles treaty. Whether we did wisely or not is a dead issue. Nobody but a blind man would say there is any more sentiment for our undertaking those obligations than there was last November.

On the other hand the Republicans are in a quandary. They are afraid of the very public opinion they have aroused. They go into the conference of November 11 with one eye on the economic facts and the other eye on a public that they have taught to fear any arrangements whatever with Europe.

The other day I was talking with one of the Senate irreconcilables. "You won a great victory," I said. "Can you organize it? Do you know what you want? The United States has cornered most of the gold in the world. You don't want imports. What do you want Europe to pay us in, to meet her debts?"

FEAR THEIR OWN ISSUES.

This man was frank with me. He admitted that if it were not for fear of the public the Senate would take an open-minded and fresh view of the best way of getting out of the world's economic tangle.

He admitted that the debts to us are worthless, and probably worse than worthless; precisely like the money owed by Germany to France and England.

But he said the public had swung so much further than even some of the irreconcilable leaders intended to have them go that these economic matters, the most real matters to consider, cannot be taken up frankly and without fear. The scares worked up to destroy Wilson now confront his conquerors.

Tariffs have become pretty nearly meaningless, foreign trade being what it is. The farmers' bloc succeeded in getting a tariff put on against Canadian wheat. It did not affect the price of wheat in this country a cent. But Canada is now carrying on a campaign to put a tariff on our products, to get even with us. The tariff issue will probably favor the Democrats in 1924, but probably also nobody will take much interest in it.

McADOO HAVE ADVANTAGE.

Taxation is the other outstanding issue. There also the Republicans are up a tree. They start to make a tax program on the principle that it is hopeless to grade taxation according to ability to pay, and then they become alarmed at that confession.

The McAdoo forces have this advantage at St. Louis and elsewhere over other factions. They are clear and uncompromising. They stand for co-operation with Europe; for graded taxation; for low tariff; for strict governmental dealing with the railway owners.

But they cannot choose the issues. In the Congressional elections next Fall, and in the presidential election two years later, the issues will be made at those points where the Republicans break down. Nobody can name these points now, because there is not a single major problem on which the Republican attitude has become definitely defined.

PROFESSOR CORBIN JOINS B. U. FACULTY

William Lee Corbin has been appointed professor and chairman of the English department at the College of Secretarial Science of Boston University, according to the announcement of Dean T. Lawrence Davis. Professor Corbin received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Amherst in 1886, and his Master of Arts degree from Yale in 1900. He was fourteen years associate professor of English at Wellesley College for Women in New York city and for the past year has been doing special work in English at Rollins College, Florida.

$5,000 Book "Problems" Will Start Monday

"Uncle Tom's Cabin."

With what sort of a drawing would you illustrate the title of Mrs. Stowe's great book?

Suppose you did not want the reader to "see" it right away? Suppose you wanted him to "work" for it, to use his thinking-machine, to ask "What title is this?"

In other words, how would you illustrate the title for "contest" purposes?

This was the problem before the very capable artist who is drawing pictures for the Boston American's $5,000 Book Title Picture Test, which begins in these columns on Monday of next week.

Five thousand dollars, in 219 cash awards, will be paid to the readers most successful in solving Mr. Artist's "problems."

We have no idea, as yet, how the thing has been accomplished, but the artist reports that the Book Test problems will be the "easiest" he ever has placed before his thousands of followers.

3 BOY BANDITS HOLD UP SOUTH END STORE

Three boys, between nineteen and twenty-one years of age, entered the store of Peter Schumavonian at No. 712 Harrison avenue, South End, hit the proprietor over the head with a blunt instrument, fracturing his skull and escaped with a bag of money. They overlooked $144 and a gold watch in the victim's pocket.

Three boys are held at the East Dedham street station as suspicious persons pending investigation.

According to the police, the boys entered the store and asked Peter to change a five dollar bill. While attempting to change it, one of the trio flashed a revolver in his face while another hit him over the head.

The boys fled with a bag of silver, which represented the money that had been taken in during the day.

Before entering Schumavonian's store, the three entered a store across the street and asked to have a five dollar bill changed, but the proprietor was unable to do it.

DISCOVERS BRIGHTON WOMAN DEATH-STRICKEN

Mrs. Sarah A. Tucker, entering her home at No. 83 Pratt street, Brighton, found her daughter Anna, twenty-eight years old, sitting in a chair in the kitchen in a state of collapse.

Mrs. Tucker carried her to the front piazza. Firemen with a pulmotor worked over the young woman for twenty minutes until physicians arrived and pronounced her dead.

CITY CONTRACTS GIVE AID TO JOBLESS

Mayor Also Puts 25 Men at Work Grading on Long Island

Mayor Peters helped to relieve unemployment in Boston when he appointed twenty-five men to gradian work on Long Island at the rate of $4 per day and approved several contracts for improvements on public buildings.

The Mayor gave permission to the Consumptives Hospital to award a contract to alter the passageway connecting the first and second ward buildings at the hospital to the lowest bidder, A. Piotti Company, at $7,440.

The Public Works Department was authorized to let a contract for laying and relaying water pipes in Chester and Summer streets, Hyde Park; Hallowell street and Wilmington avenue, Dorchester, and Ashmore road and Hyde Park avenue, West Roxbury, to V. Sohena at $1,505.

Joseph E. Somerset of No. 89 Village street was awarded a contract to repair the roofs of drawtenders' houses at a cost of $1,788.

SPECIFICATIONS ARE FURNISHED TO LEVENSON

Allen Cites Questionable Dealings With Woman Client in 1913

Attorney Harry E. Levenson is charged with receiving sums in excess of $4,000 from two clients and receiving fees from two others, in specifications filed against him by Attorney-General Allen in the Supreme Court.

This is the attorney-general's answer to specifications demanded by Attorney Levenson on Allen's petition for his disbarment on the ground that Levenson deceived his own clients.

Beginning in October of 1920, Allen charges that Levenson was paid $4,000 by James Hughes of No. 6 Ellsworth street, Somerville, and $1500 by Ernest Linegar of No. 10 Broadway, Somerville, who at that time were charged with receiving stolen goods.

The dates of the transactions with Hughes and Linegar are given as October 5 and 26 of 1920.

In another portion of his answer the Attorney-General names Ernest Linegar and Elizabeth Aucutt as having been deceived by Levenson.

This was done, Allen declares, "by making divers false statements and representations to said Hughes and Linegar as to the use of the monies paid by them to the respondent; the persons claiming restitution, the sums claimed by them, and the sums to be paid them; the seriousness of the offense and the penalty for the same, and the disposition of the criminal complaints against them. In the case of Aucutt by falsely representing that he would invest her money for her."

In the case of Elizabeth Aucutt, Allen names the year 1913 as the time of the alleged transaction by Levenson.

Easy For Thin People to Put on Flesh and Gain Weight

It's such an easy matter nowadays for thin, scrawny people to get an good, healthy, solid flesh and become plump and graceful that often wonders why there are still so many people who seem to prefer to be "all skin and bone," unsightly and unpleasant to look upon.

Physicians have long known that whenever could discover a remedy that would cause the food that one puts into the stomach to turn into good, rich, fresh making blood instead of poison waste, would also discover how to put healthy muscular flesh onto thin, under-nourished people, and this has now been accomplished.

If you are thin, under developed, nervous, weak, or lack vim and vitality, you can secure at our good pharmacy at moderate cost a full new treatment of EVANS' TRIPLE PHOSPHATES, a new combination of flesh producing, muscle building, strength creating elements that is guaranteed to put good, solid, lasting flesh on your body and to make you strong, healthy and vigorous, or money back.

Physicians who have watched the results of the Evans' Triple Phosphates treatment are astonished at its rapid action—often as a result of but ten pounds of desirable weight is gained. Stacy Drug Co., Epstein Drug Co., Armstrong's Drug Co., North Station Drug Store, Richardson Drug Co., W. B. Hunt and Walker-Gordon have agreed to supply readers of this paper with Evans' Triple Phosphates and to guarantee it to do just what is claimed for it or money refunded.—Advertisement

MOST PITIFUL SIGHT IN LIFE

Is a man or woman who has no "will-power" as a result of nerve force exhaustion

All the physical suffering which may be caused by nervous irritability, headaches, backaches, indigestion, heart palpitation, etc., as a result of nerve force exhaustion, are nothing as compared with its awful effects upon the mind and "will power."

The most pitiful sight in life is a man or woman who has "no will"—who has noble impulses and desires but no real "will power" to carry them through. Memory also fails, the judgment is bad and everything therefore seems to go wrong.

In such cases do not take more stimulating medicines nor narcotic drugs (which only further injure your delicate nervous system), but what you need is something to put more nerve force into your nerves and more iron into your blood to help make new nerve force with which to feed your starving nerve cells. This is most effectively accomplished by the free use of Nuxated Iron. This valuable product contains the principal chemical constituent of active living nerve force in a form which most resembles that in the brain and nerve cells of man. It also contains strength-giving organic iron for the blood and may therefore be said to be both a blood and a nerve food. Over 4,000,000 bottles are using it annually. Satisfactory results are guaranteed to every purchaser or the manufacturers will refund your money. Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package. Sold by all druggists.

PRINCETON MAY EMPLOY NAVY PLAYS AGAINST CRIMSON TEAM

BY CHARLES E. PARKER

And now beginneth the first chapter in the "Big Three" series. This chapter involves two teams already familiar with the bitter potion of defeat—the one being Princeton, already the victim of the Navy and Chicago, and the other Harvard, whose team has bowed to "Bo" McMillin, "Red" Roberts, et al

If a month or so ago someone had suggested that vanquished teams would meet in this initial "Big Three" battle, that someone would have been politely advised of a beautiful view that could be had from the window of a psychopathic ward, and kindly but none-the-less firmly invited to view that view.

• • •

But this is a strange football season. The modern football attack is out one mile in front of any possible defence and a mile behind it, instead of serving only as a temporary disadvantage to the "breaking" team, can and often has brought about unconquerable defeat, and rendered the victors of yesterday the vanquished of today or vice versa. And as the fates cannot be changed until the next annual meeting of the football rules committee, this sort of thing is apt to continue until they roll down the curtain.

• • •

On its showing last Fall and its retention or acquisition of star players Princeton was generally conceded in 1921 "Big Three" championship honors without difficulty—not much, however—was anticipated for the Tigers in the Navy game, while the Chicago-Princeton battle was figured as a neat opportunity for Eastern football to demonstrate its superiority over the Mid-Western type of play.

• • •

But the Middies smeared the Tigers, scoring a touchdown and two goals from the field, holding Roper's team from registering a single first down; and, on Navy's fourth down, romping through Captain Stan Keck for nine-yard, twelve-yard and sixteen-yard gains. And one week later Chicago, having observed how the Navy accomplished the Tiger trouncing job, copied the Middies' stuff and with results almost as successful, for only three first downs were registered by the Tigers in that contest.

• • •

Before-the-season estimates of Harvard's 1921 gridiron strength were not so glowing. The loss of all the first string linemen of last Fall and two of the first string backs, left the Crimson with few experienced veterans of established ability

• • •

But then, there was the Harvard system with a wonderful record of successes over a period of a dozen years or more. Many thought the Harvard system was all that was needed to place upon the field a great team—in fact, when the late Tom Shevlin of Yale, spoofed the Star and system and said that players of genuinely high calibre were important than methods of instruction and schools of thought, they laughed at Tom, and, prior to last week, those who took no further than the score board as a guide believed Tom to be entirely wrong.

• • •

But the fact remains that Harvard's team of this year, with only two or three players in the first class, and, for the first time in several years facing a schedule in which early season opponents have shown some strength, has proved to be anything but a great team.

Although the score failed to show it, there was no doubt in the minds of the Stadium audience that Holy Cross and Penn State were vastly superior to the Crimson in the majority of departments of play, and that fortune and very costly slipups alone prevented Harvard defeats. It remained, however, for Centre College, with a far less impressive array than Holy Cross and Penn State, to come out in the lead so far as scores were concerned

• • •

Consequently we find meeting in the first of the once-all-supreme "Big Three," Princeton with a collection of stars, who have sorrowfully learned that something besides size and a pleasant way of stiff-arming (a necessary to successful) football; and Harvard, without any Brickleys, Mahans, Hardwicks, Francises, Gilmans and Woods, wondering if the Harvard system is all that is necessary to produce winning football.

• • •

Although perhaps forgotten by Princeton men in their joy at Princeton successes of the latter part of 1919 and the entire season of 1920, the Tiger team of two years ago was in exactly the same position as the Tiger team of this year.

• • •

In their midseason games with Princeton the teams of Chicago and West Virginia ran rough-shod over the Tigers. The West Virginia triumph in particular was, if anything, more impressive than was the Navy victory of this season and the margin of points scored against Tiger elevens by Annapolis three weeks ago.

• • •

While the Tigers were receiving those 1919 setbacks, members of the Tiger coaching staff studied methods employed by Chicago and West Virginia in accomplishing their decisive victories, and immediately incorporated the Colgate and West Virginia "stuff" as part of the Princeton system. So successful were they in emulating their conquerors that Yale fell before them and Harvard could achieve only a tie score.

Many are looking for history to repeat itself insofar as Tiger tactics are concerned, in the last Saturday's Princeton-Virginia game, there was indication that history was going to do that very thing.

• • •

Reports said Tiger ends were driving in on the defense, which was what the Navy and Chicago did the weeks before, but exactly opposite what Princeton ends were doing against Navy and Chicago. Reports said also that Princeton was employing short, over-the-line forward pass with a smother of interference for the man who received the ball, and while the Navy and Chicago guesses against Princeton, the Tigers showed nothing of that nature before the Virginia game, and that was

• • •

The 1919 Harvard-Princeton game found the Crimson confronting a Colgate, West Virginia attack put on by Princeton team, and this week's Harvard-Princeton battle may differ in tactics only in the respect that the Crimson will look for a Chicago attack put on by Bill Roper's Tigers.

• • •

If such is the case and the Nasmu outfit has been ably instructed in those borrowed formations, Harvard's lot may prove anything but an easy one, for Coach Roper's question as to the potential individual superiority of the Princeton players over those representing the Crimson

• • •

The latter, however, prevailed in 1919, and Harvard although outplayed was never outscored, and is possible that Harvard through intelligent play again may be able to outset the success of an individually stronger Tiger team. Princeton has yet to learn a defense for forward passes.

• • •

Its backs invariably play the man instead of the territory and the ball, and inasmuch as there are but four Princeton backs while there always are five eligible receivers of passes, it has been particularly easy to "fix" the Tigers with well-conceived serials.

B. U. PREPARES FOR BIG GAME WITH TUFTS

Some of Coach Whelan's Stars Will Be Unable to Play on Saturday

The most brilliant game of the season for Boston University will be played Saturday against Tufts at Medford Oval. This is because of the old rivalry between the two teams. It will be remembered that Coach Whelan was formerly coach at Tufts. It was then that Tufts had its best team and defeated Harvard. It is no wonder that the Tufts team want to show Whelan, and Boston University coach, that it is just as good as of old and that it will beat Boston University. It is with this idea in mind that the Tufts eleven will try to defeat Boston University.

The game will be a hard one. Tufts has had a good season, and the team will be evenly matched.

Coach Whelan put the Boston University eleven through light signal practice, falling on the ball, and ended with a dummy scrimmage yesterday. The B. U team came out in bad shape from the game with Rhode Island State, Saturday, although injuries. A few men were injured and will be unable to play in the game next Saturday.

Worcester suffered a sprained ankle, but Coach Whelan is in hopes that he will be all right in a day or two. Lonergan is not expected to be in this game, because of his knee.

St. Bridgets Will Play

The St. Bridget's football club of Lexington promises a successful season this Fall. In its opening game with the St. Andrews' team in Billerica, last Saturday, it won handily 23 to 0. The Lexington outfit will play a return contest with this Billerica club on the Lexington Athletic Field on Saturday.

COACH CORDERRY TAKES PLACE IN YALE BOAT

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 1.—Head Coach Jim Corderry, who won a few sculling races and rowed on several crack crews in England before the war, displayed some of his old form yesterday when he rowed at stroke in the Yale first varsity shell.

The Yale coach took the place of Freeman, who was absent from the practice on the Housatonic river at Derby.

ARMY BEGINS ITS DRIVE FOR NOTRE DAME GAME

West Point, Nov. 1.—The Army today began its drive for the Notre Dame battle here next Saturday Following the usual Monday blackboard talk there was a light drill, but the men did not get out until late

General satisfaction was expressed with the performance of the substitutes against Susquehanna last week. Wood was the only varsity man used in that contest. Johnston's work at quarter was pleasing and he is likely to drive the Army next Saturday, as Wilhide's leg injury, received in the Yale game, will probably keep him out of the line-up several weeks. French will be out indefinitely.

Preidster, the giant guard, who also was hurt in the Yale game, is now around, but limping badly, and one of the problems will be to find a strong substitute for his position All the other varsity men are expected back in the first positions this week. Hard scrimmaging will be the program for the Cadets until Friday.

PARKER CLUB WILL NOT HAVE ELEVEN THIS FALL

Because of the inability to get eleven good players, the Parker Club of Lexington, which last year was represented on the gridiron with a strong football team, will have no eleven this Fall. George Hinchey the manager, makes the announcement

DARTMOUTH HAS BIG JOB FOR ITS COACH

Must Reconstruct Eleven for Games With Penn, Syracuse and Georgia

Hanover N H Nov 1 Confident despite the crushing 62-0 defeat at the hands of Center, Saturday, Dartmouth yesterday began the task of reconstructing its eleven to meet the hard games with Pennsylvania, Syracuse and Georgia, that constitute the remainder of the schedule

A gigantic job is confronting Jackson Cannell, the youngest major college coach in America, and one which he has never before had the ability and the material available at Dartmouth this year, yet the coaching staff and the men can go better than they did against Cornell, and all effort will be made during the next two weeks toward bringing this reserve power to the front.

Cannell put the squad through a long workout, with emphasis placed on the fundamentals All the men got out save Carpenter guard who suffered a dislocated shoulder at Cornell; Haws, out temporarily with a sprained ankle; Edwards, suffering from a bruised and infected knee and Neidlinger, who was banged up generally and still feels the effects.

YALE PUTS ON FINISHING TOUCHES FOR BIG GAMES OF YEAR

New Haven, Ct., Nov. 1.—Once during the season the Yale eleven is annually sent through full time playing periods in practice, and the coaches were undecided this morning as to whether to order that ordeal today or tomorrow. It is scheduled for one of these two days.

The Eli team has just four more days of scrimmage practice before the Princeton game of Saturday, next week, four days more this season, for there will be no exacting practice during the week between the Princeton and the Harvard games.

The practice scheme planned calls for fifteen minutes' drilling practice today, ten minutes tomorrow and from five to eight minutes Thursday, closing the strong dose which Head Coach Ted Jones says is essential to turn the scrimmaging of Saturday into effects. According to Jones, both the offense and defense are full of team imperfections.

Yale's soft schedule has led to some large scores but no genuine test, although the West Point game tried the mettle of the eleven.

Although the general physical condition of the players is excellent Captain Malcolm Aldrich, Charley Ollcott and Charley Beckett, must be handled with gloves, because Beckett has two muscles bruised and Ollcott is because of his early season illness.

"Dynamite" Murphy as reserve full-back is not fully available for just now for that reason. The selection of a quarterback against Princeton will largely depend on the physical condition of Beckett and Ollcott next week.

Captain Malcolm Aldrich is not likely to be driven through the long practice of this week. He has been below weight all the Fall, dropping to 166 pounds at one time. This is extremely light for an offensive halfback and will lead to Aldrich being rested most of the time until the Princeton game. He will get one day of heavy practice however to test his endurance.

Although Yale will not admit that the second team will be sent against Maryland here next Saturday, most of the regulars will look over the Princeton-Harvard bout

Yale has not usually sent more than three or four of the first string selections because Brown, its home opponent, has given Yale full competition

The demand for tickets to the Yale-Princeton game has already eclipsed the ability of the football management to accommodate even the alumni and undergraduates and cutting in some of the lists will be necessary. The alumni were originally allotted four tickets each.

Both on the parapet of the bowl and below the concrete temporary seats have been constructed to the end of the seating capacity of the enclosure, making it possible for nearly 80,000 people to witness the game.

HARVARD STUDENTS GIVE TEAM SEND-OFF

Harvard will whoop it up tonight for its football team. About 2,000 students are expected to crowd the living room of the Union, where the first mass meeting of the Fall will be held at half past seven. Captain Kane will speak for the full team assembled there, even to Frank Rouillard on his crutches with a broken ankle, while the graduate spellbinders will be Lo Withington, captain of the 1910 team, and Wallie Trumbull, who starred at the captaincy with Charlie Brickley in 1916 when the premier drop kicker, convalescing from an operation for appendicitis, only got into the game a minute or two as a threat.

The Harvard Band will play for the rally. The crew captain: Bayard Wharton of the track team and Eddie Goodie, the pitcher, will be leaders in order that the band may be able to follow the words. The Glee Club will sing some old football songs not heard at the games in a number of years.

Harvard got under way to earnest today to prepare for the Princeton game, although most of last week was given over to this task lightly. This may account in part for the awful beating dealt by Centre when the Crimson had its mind on other ventures.

• • •

• • •

Coach Fisher will drill this team from now on for the Princeton game. No stone will be left unturned to whip it into shape. Yesterday the second team, which has been studying Princeton formations for more than a week, brought on a batch of them to use against the varsity.

• • •

Princeton plays, engineered by the scrubs, were tried in dummy scrimmage against the regulars. The defense for them appeared strong, although tackling was barred, Frank Pratt impersonates Don Lourie. Coach Fisher has barred scrimmage for the week.

• • •

Rouillard is preparing to make the trip to Princeton, as is Gehrke. They will form part of the squad of forty-two men. Rouillard will be on crutches because of his broken ankle, while a special brace will be on Gehrke's head. Gehrke has an outside chance to play against Yale. A brace is being constructed for his broken jawbone.

There is a chance that Coach Fisher may use Fitts as an end Saturday if things are not moving to suit him on the extremities. He has given up the idea of moulding Tierney for centre, but may do so after Saturday. Clark, however, is a fighter, every inch of his 167 pounds, and has made a big fight with the coaches.

Harvard is having overtime football just now. They prepare report at the Stadium from 2 o'clock on, have three-quarters of an hour for dinner at the Varsity Club, and then attend the various classes which last until 7 o'clock. Each of the different groups gets special instruction from their coaches.

TAKE YEAST THE BEST WAY—WITH IRON

If Weak, Thin or Run-Down Take Ironized Yeast, the Great New Vitamine Tonic Treatment in Tablet Form.

No longer will it be necessary for people to put up with all the objectionable features of eating ordinary baking yeast for health. For yeast may now be taken in convenient tablet form, combined with iron, which is necessary in order to get the best benefit from yeast.

This preparation is called Ironized Yeast, and is the approved vitamine tonic treatment for run-down conditions, loss of weight, nervousness, lack of energy, poor appetite, skin eruptions and other run-down symptoms.

The reason Ironized Yeast is bringing such splendid results everywhere is because it contains richly concentrated brewer's yeast, which is far richer in vitamines than ordinary baking yeast, Vitamines, as we know, are one of the most essential of all food elements—yet our modern diet is almost entirely lacking in them.

If you are weak, pale, sickly—if you are nervous, irritable, and can't sleep nights—if your vitality is low and you are getting old before your time—then try this remarkable new tonic. You will notice a good improvement in your condition even after the first few days' use. Pimples and other skin blemishes usually disappear entirely within two weeks. Everywhere people are saying that Ironized Yeast is just the tonic they needed.

Ironized Yeast will keep indefinitely and costs no more per dose than common yeast. Each package contains 10 days' treatment and costs only $1.00 or just 10c. a day. Special directions for children in each package. Sold at all druggists. Made by the Ironized Yeast Company, Atlanta, Ga.

NEW YORK AND QUAKER CITY TEAMS STRONG

New York, with the St Nicholas Rink, and Philadelphia, with the Quaker City team a year ago were left out in the B. A. A. and Semi Pro Leagues Club in the Eastern group of the United States Amateur Hockey Association. This year, however, Father Kulckerbocker and Friend Quaker will have teams of class, well able to cope with anything the Boston teams offer.

The New York team will consist of players who gained fame with Queen's College Toronto Varsity and other Canadian club teams. A year ago this outfit was known as the Metropolitans of New York and created a stir by its work in Philadelphia.

The Quaker City team will be a combination of the St Nicholas team of last year and the pick of local City combination with four flashy stars, Ned Bigelow, Hank Snelling, Roger Buntin and Jabby Holmes of a year ago. With men like Freddy Huntington, Johnny Morgan, Ray Ellis and Dick Humphries from the St. Nicks, and four good men from the Quaker City, including Fred Hill, the old Varsity star, the club will have a strong representation.

New York and Philadelphia will play two Boston teams on their own ice. Manager George Dickson of the Arena is working on a schedule arrangement to decide how the two local teams will be treated. It is not known at present what it will be four or five games on the Boston Triple Crown record or a home and home series. Whatever it is, the B. A. A. Pete Natipie, the St. C. Melrose Hockey Club and the Westminster Hockey Club, gives this city five teams.

Secretary Sullivan's forceful arguments in his efforts to effect changes in the playing rules which he would clarify the game and also restore rules that conform with those in vogue in Canadian leagues made a deep impression at the association meeting.

His contention that a player could be seated could be readily accepted by the meeting. The establishment of a twenty-foot zone extending from behind the net to the front to permit a played to take a rebound within that space and skate up the rink was another of Sullivan's suggestions well received. Both changes will tend to speed the game.

Tom Kanaly's fight to have the championship series decided by games won, instead of goals, was not considered successful, since President Maddock, to whom this matter is left for final decision, agrees with the Union manager. If the two contending teams are tied at two games won each, the rink on which the fourth game was played will be the battle ground for the fifth match.

The International Skating Union's failure to cope with the hockey situation has caused the United States Association to petition the A. A. U. for the right to conduct hockey in this country.

JEFFERSON MANAGER IS READY TO MAKE DATES

The Jeffersons of Roxbury will be represented by the same team that has represented them for the last four years in basketball.

Tom O'Connor, who played a sterling game for St. Pleasant Knights of Columbus last year will play right forward. John Reed, who was also played for the Adams five last year will cover left forward. Leo Reed will play center, Joe Dobson and Kris Grady will be the backs.

They have been playing four years and have won 132 and lost eight games. Last year the only teams to beat them was Stoughton Catholic and Holy Name Club.

The manager is anxious to get started and would like to hear from the strongest teams in the State. Address all communications to Basketball Manager Jeffersons Club No 548 Albany street, Roxbury.

Foch, Landis and Ruth Guests at Casey Dinner

By Universal Service.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Marshal Foch may be instrumental in mending the latest rupture in organized baseball, it was said yesterday. Judge Landis and "Babe" Ruth have been invited to attend the Knights of Columbus banquet Sunday night, at which Marshal Foch will be guest of honor.

"We felt Marshal Foch would want to see the world's greatest ball player and the country's most noted judge," said Ed. Houlihan, chairman of the entertainment committee, "and who knows but the meeting will heal the breach between the judge and Babe."

The breach between Judge Landis, high commissioner of baseball, and "Babe" Ruth came when the latter insisted on appearing in exhibition games after the World Series.

Both matches will go to a finish

BASKETBALL SEASON OPENS AT "Y" NOV 19

The basketball season will be ushered in at the Boston Y. M. C. A. by a demonstration game, during which the rules for this season, which have been slightly changed, will be interpreted, as well as the many result situations which are so during the average game.

The Massachusetts Officers' Association will take over the refereeing and interpreting at these preliminary games, which will be staged by the Northeastern College and "Y" teams.

The meeting will be held at the Huntington avenue building at 8 p. m. on November 19 and no admission will be charged. It will be open to all interested players, coaches and others

B. C. CAN LOOK FOR THREE VICTORIES

Coach Cavanaugh Says Eleven Can Beat Marietta, Georgetown and Holy Cross

Taking the Fordham game as a fair standard to measure the strength of the Boston College line in the games that are to follow, Coach Cavanaugh stated that in Saturday's game, the B. C. line received its final test, and the result was very gratifying.

He expects that his men will continue to improve from now until the end of the season, and barring accidents, he believes that the Boston College team will win its games with Marietta, Georgetown and Holy Cross in victories.

The work of Art McManus at right end on Saturday was of the first order. Cavanaugh shifted McManus from his regular position at guard only a week before, and it was not thought that the husky guard would be able to play so strong for a week or so.

McManus was able to get down the field under fairly good protection during his first game in every way. Mc Manus who played the last few games for Boston College by Lt. Cavanaugh, Meyer's fumble behind the B. C. goal line.

In McManus Cavanaugh has apparently found the solution of his difficulty with end positions. Captain Tony Comerford has been doing first-class work at his end all season, but the team needed another Comerford on the other end to properly balance it.

Yesterday was a day of rest for the regulars while the subs had but a short signal drill. Today, Cavanaugh will have his entire first team, with the exception of Barling, on the field to begin strenuous work in preparation for the Marietta game.

Jack Kraemer, regular tackle has recovered sufficiently from the injuries he received in the Detroit game to be able to don the fighting togs again, and will appear in the line on Saturday.

It is not yet known definitely that Jim Doyle will get into the Marietta game, although his shoulder is now in good shape. If Cavanaugh decides to hold Doyle for the Georgetown and Holy Cross games, (Cupie) Elberry will continue at left guard.

The need of a good punter on the Maroon and Gold eleven was again emphasized in the Fordham game. Steve Patten could not lift the ball high enough to enable the ends to get very far down under the ball, and several times the B. C. team was saved from a dangerous predicament by the lucky fumbling of the pigskin.

Donnellan's leg is improving, which makes it likely that he will get in Saturday's game either at quarter or right half. Donnellan is a good punter who has had experience in handling the ball from the line of scrimmage, which experience the other good punters on the squad lack.

The fact that Harvard will play soccer from home next Saturday has caused a big jump in the sale of tickets for the B. C.-Marietta game, and a crowd of 15,000 is expected at Brave Field

Says the Reason Some Men Carry a Cane Is Because They Have No Wife and They Need Something to Lean On.

Several firms are manufacturing canes with valuable heads. Every now and then you see a cane which has a better head than the guy who's carrying it.

They're both light at one end

Some men are so used to carrying a cane that if they leave home without it they feel undressed.

One guy was in such a condition that he put the cane to bed and hung himself up on the hatrack.

A cane is nothing but the twig of a tree, but some guys are so mean that they wouldn't even let a sparrow sit on it.

A man walks along and unconsciously slabs everything he sees. One guy got home and found he had a cane full of newspapers, three straw hats and a couple of cigars.

The majority of walking sticks are made out of maple, and it's easier to straw hats and a couple of cigars than it is to take the cane away from the sap.

A cane costs quite a bit at the start but you can pick up enough in a short time to pay for it

The reason we men carry a cane is so we can keep our hands out of our pockets. What we need is something that will keep our wives' hands out of our pockets.

In some cases, canes are a necessity. If a man hasn't got a wife he has to have something to lean on

Some men have a family tree and they like to carry a branch of it in their hand.

A lot of men can walk faster when they've carrying a cane. They ought to carry three or four of them and they'd get there quicker than taking a taxi.

TAD'S TIDBITS

"MANY A SMILING FACE COVERS AN ACHING HEART

It was at one of the local clubs. A nice looking lad with a brown sweater entered the squared circle first. He took his seat, smiled at a few acquaintances and rubbed his feet in the resin.

A moment later his opponent entered. He was a tow-headed, blue-eyed well battered man of the profession. He looked as though he might up over the other the first time he slugged him.

A well-dressed gent in the front row, leaning toward a friend, said: "It's a shame that such a nice-looking lad as that boy in the corner here should have to earn his money with boxing gloves, isn't it?"

The friend thought it rather tough, but added: "They're well paid, you know, for the little they do. This lad probably has a fat bank account for all we know."

"Huh, he ain't got a cent, if you want to know. He made a hook of jack beard, then he turned bootlegger with his roll and cleaned up. He wanted to be a millionaire, so he went into a crap game and NOW—say, he had to go back to fightin'. That's how broke he is."

It Made Us Laugh, Too

Last week, while strolling down the great dry way, Jack Dempsey and an old pal were talking about fights. They talked about Jack's early battles, his fights against Fulton and Willard and others After a moment or two while still doing the Dan O'Leary Dempsey said

The friend looked at Jack, then kicked the pavement as he meandered and said:

"Well, I don't think Eddie Foy could have been any funnier than you were that night."

Dempsey didn't answer, nor ask any more questions. He switched the chirping suddenly, saying, "Do you play any golf, Bert?"

Why Not Call 'Em the Nobody Homes?

Dear Tad—Are the Giants brainless or are they just a trifle dumb? Can you understand why it was that they looked at the bench for instructions on every ball pitched in the World's Series" Bancroft at bat with two balls called and no strikes looked at the bench for instructions. Snyder, the catcher, while catching, had a Yank at bat with two strikes on him. He looked to the bench for instructions. Quite often a Giant at bat with one ball on him and no strikes looked to the bench for instructions. Did the old Cubs or the old Athletics ever do such asinine tricks? Haven't the Giants any noodles at all?

They tell me that next year they will wear across their chests WORLD'S CHAMPIONS. I would suggest instead of that they wear THE I DON'T THINKS. It would be more appropriate.

Yours truly,

SHUBERT GETS DECISION IN ELKINS GO

New Bedford Battler Carries Fight to Boston Boy in Fast Mill

New Bedford Nov 1—Two former New England featherweight champions, Al Shubert, of this city and Charley K. O. Elkins, of Boston, fought a slashing ten round bout at the Arena in this city last night, the former winning the judges' decision handily

Shubert carried every round except the second, which he dropped after a mix-up with Elkins. Shubert carried the fight to his opponent from the start, and Elkins was unable to make more of a fight. From then on it was a whirlwind battle, with Shubert employing his famous tearing-in tactics with telling effect on Elkins' body.

The Boston boy landed several hard left hooks to the head and body and in the ninth round knocked Shubert down but the latter was on his feet before the referee could complete the count of ten.

Elkins showed considerable cleverness at times, but was unable to withstand the fierce attack of his opponent. Shubert was also the aggressor in the last round with his head.

LEONARD PILOTS DYSON ON ROAD TO TITLE

By JACK CONWAY

Bobo Dyson who packs a punch in both gloves, is the latest addition to the list of our local pugilistic aspirants from now on Jack Leonard, who is directing the Dyson surge once more, has signed the New Bedford boy to meet Johnny Curtin of New York in a ten-round bout at Fall River on Friday night, while on a week from tonight the local warrior will have Al Ziemer of Cleveland as an opponent in a bout at Philadelphia.

Dyson is a product of the ring game back in Knoxville. At Walker A. C. Philadelphia, Bobby made such a flash of speed that three Philadelphia scouts immediately started bidding for his services.

Flynn a words will prove more convincing than Leonard if the financial ante is raised

• • •

Dyson's new drive has instilled new life into the bantamweight situation in this part of the land of the hostch hunters. Abe Friedman, New England bantamweight champion, is expected as being in training once more, but Eddie Mack says has enough class to make things interesting for the opposition and isn't the least bit particular as to who is his next opponent.

Paddy Flynn, Everett's rugged welterweight, is busy training for new conquests. Flynn is now managed by his cousin, Tom Flynn. The latter is a close student of ring affairs and knows of no reason why Paddy should not be able to dispose of any of those young men who would block his path to fame and the accompanying green backs

• • •

President Bill Cuddy says the St. Joseph's A. A. indoor will save the local boxing situation. It would be born up shortly against the Walk Hill A. C. of Roxbury next week for fistic fame with only one professional show immediately started bidding for his services.

Leo Publicity Flynn, proud right eye of Tex Rickard, has also put in a request for Dyson's services. He might pick up a few more pointers on how to sell tickets while he is at it.

Flynn a words will prove more convincing than Leonard if the financial ante is raised

• • •

The Fenway A. A. has saved the local boxing situation for this week as far as professional shows are concerned. Matchmaker Roy Green has signed Terry Martin, former New England bantamweight champion, to meet Danny Kramer of Philadelphia in the feature bout of ten rounds at a show to be staged at the Boston Arena on Friday night.

Kramer is a former West End boy and has been winning steadily since he went to the Quaker City. As for Martin, he is one of those pleasing, two-handed fighters who always give the fans a run for their money.

• • •

Kramer and Martin will be surrounded by a strong card. Freddy Maddon of East Boston and Frankie Conway of Philadelphia will collide in the semi-final of ten rounds. It will be the third meeting between these boys. As each has a decision to his credit, there is sure to be an abundance of action. Friday night Johnny Shepard of Woburn and Frankie Ryan of Everett will mingle in another ten-rounder, while Jack Savage of Brockton and Bill Clancy of New York are billed to meet in an eight-round affair.

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By B. C. FORBES

Did you notice the delightful incident which happened during the race between the Canadian and the American fishing boats? The American boat's topmast was carried away and, immediately, the Canadian skipper lowered his topmast sails so as to put his boat on the same footing as his rival in the matter of the amount of sail carried.

* * *

Doesn't it do your heart good to read a thing like that? Doesn't it tend to give you a wholesome idea of human nature?

* * *

Why, oh! why can't we inject into our daily business, our daily work, more of this sportsmanship spirit? Would not there be more fun, would not there be more satisfaction, would not there be more real joy if work and business were carried on in the same spirit of fair play which animates most forms of sports?

* * *

Of course, all sports are not conducted on this high plane. Sometimes at football and baseball games there are spectators who do their best to "rattle" players at critical moments, and to applaud when their plays only when made by their favorites. In fact, you may recall that writers on sports were greatly impressed by the conduct of the spectators at the last international polo match in this country; the American spectators were just as ready to applaud clever plays by the British as by their own side. On the whole, however, what we call "sportsmanship" does pervade sport.

In a sense business is gradually becoming more ethical. So are relations between workers and employers. Yet, in the words of the one-time popular song, "We have got a long way to go."

Look how many concerns broke contracts when prices collapsed last year. Think of how many concerns resorted to the flimsiest of excuses for refusing to accept delivery of goods because the market had gone against them.

It is true also that much rottenness was uncovered both among certain labor cliques and among cliques of employers in various cities and in different trades, particularly those connected with the building industry.

Also there have been ugly disclosures of all sorts of combinations and "gentlemen's" agreements to hold up prices throughout certain lines of industry.

Then, again, the attitude of many employers toward their work people has been anything but admirable. When times boom burst out it became possible to reduce working forces many executives gloried in being able to "put labor in its place." In many cases dismissals were made with positive glee.

And, turning to the other side of the picture, there is no denying that anecdotes like the following are inspired by actual experiences: A new foreman took charge of the shop this particular morning, and almost every man had not as yet met him. About the middle of the forenoon he was making a tour of the buildings to familiarize himself with the layout. When on one building a small enclosure he saw two workmen inside who were sitting smoking. Before he had the opportunity to speak one of the men said: "Hello, what are you doing, stranger?"

"I'm Dodgen, the new foreman," was the reply.

"So are we, come in and have a smoke."

After all, however, most of us are fairly decent and would rather do the right thing than the wrong thing. We derive more satisfaction from doing some work well than from doing any dirty piece of business. We would rather go straight than crooked. We would rather make our living by honest methods than by dishonest methods. We would rather be friendly with those than unfriendly with those associated with us in our daily activities.

In short, deep down in our hearts we admire the square spirit exhibited by the skipper of the Canadian fishing boat.

* * *

Why not, then, let each and every one of us to make up our minds to adopt sportsmanship in all our transactions with others, employers and workers alike? Let us proceed on the belief that it is just as contemptible to cheat in our daily work as it is to cheat on the field of sport. Whenever I hear a man relate with gusto how he bowdwinked some one else I feel sorry, not so much for the one who is cheated, but for the one who exults in having done the cheating. There is nothing in it. It doesn't pay in the end. It doesn't yield dividends of happiness. It doesn't increase our estimate of ourselves.

* * *

In the long run it pays to be a sport in work and in business. And certainly it yields more lasting satisfaction. I have known a few millionaires who made their money by questionable tactics and, believe me, you would not want to fill their shoes—or their coffins.

OILS FEATURE NEW YORK TRADING

Foreign Petroleum Shares Show Early Strength; Market Rallies and Reacts

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Irregularity characterized the New York list at noon. After a display of strength there was a reaction which wiped out early advances and gave the market a heavy tone. Oils, tobaccos and steels were at the lowest level in the second hour. Rails were steady. Equipments were weak. Trading was of smaller volume than on Monday. Call money opened at 5½ per cent and dropped to 5 per cent. But this had little effect upon stocks. Foreign exchange rates ruled lower, demand sterling receding half a cent to $3.92¾ at the start.

American tobacco issues at noon were Chandler, International Harvester, Lorillard, Retail Stores, Tobacco Products, Texas Gulf Sulphur, United Drug, Union Oil, Industrial Alcohol and U. S. Food Products. Among strong issues were Peoples Gas, American Sugar, Burns Bros., Reading, Northern Pacific and Royal Dutch. Mexican Petroleum had risen from a two point gain to a fractional loss.

HAD IRREGULAR START.

The market had an irregular start but the tone was heavy and more stocks went down than up. The movement was decessional. Gains, as well as losses in a fairly whole took most leaders above the opening level. The price range was rather narrow. Colorado & Southern was a strong rail, advancing more than four points to a high for a year. Brooklyn Union Gas also attained a 1921 high, but had to advance a fraction only to do it. After selling below Monday's lowest Mexican Petroleum recovered and at the end of an hour was up two points. Houston made a little larger gain while Pan American and Royal Dutch gained one. Baldwin was strong and active. Rails had poor beginning but figured in the upward movement. Trading and Northern Pacific made the best showing. Coppers were firmer. News regarding this branch of mining is encouraging. Sugars had an improved tone.

GILS WERE LEADERS.

Studebaker was the only active motor issue and made a fractional gain. Auto stocks in general had an indefinite trend. Little was done in rubbers and tobaccos made small gains. Oils commanded most of the attention during the morning hours and displayed more strength than domestic petroleums. Associated Oil dropped more than three points to 19¾ on the curb. Borrowing demand for stocks after the close yesterday was moderate. Rates for rails and industrials ruled at previous quotations.

After today's payments a lower call rate is expected. The oversubscription of the new U. S. Treasury issue of $200,000,000 4-4 per cent bonds and 4 per cent certificates of indebtedness is regarded as an indication of ease in the money regards money. The decline in interest rates is leading to talk of further reductions in Federal Reserve rediscount rates.

Liquidation of Loans

Regardless of improvement in the banking situation, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York says:

"The rise in credit and the rapid movement of grain to market have been factors in liquidating loans, especially in districts primarily or largely agricultural. This liquidation was reflected immediately in the growth of reserve banks of those districts which in the last thirty days have reduced borrowings to a total of $40,000,000. Member banks $28,000,000. Easier conditions in agricultural sections have been reflected also in loans of large New York City banks, which report borrowings by out-of-town correspondents correspondingly reduced. Small country banks and banks in cotton States have been relatively active in reducing indebtedness here. A few larger banks in crop-moving districts have also reduced rediscounts heavily, but this has not been general or sufficiently large to offset, generally, the liquidation of other loans."

Coal Output Increased

Fear of a railway strike was reflected by a greater coal output. Production of the October 22 week is computed by the geological survey at 10,932,000 net tons of bituminous, an increase of 1,302,000 over the previous week. The total output of anthracite is estimated at 1,812,000 net tons.

City Loans

Westfield, Mass., will receive proposals until 12 m. on Nov. 3, for a temporary loan of $100,000. Application of Revere, Mass., will be dated Nov. 3 and payable Jan. 25, 1922.

Bristol, Co., will receive bids until 4 p. m. Nov. 1 for $1,350,000 of 4½ per cent highway improvement bonds, dated Nov. 1, 1921 and payable each of years 1922 to 1925 inclusive.

Nashua, N. H., has sold a temporary loan of $100,000 to Harris, Forbes & Co., maturing Jan. 10, 1922, to F. S. Moseley & Co. at 4.09 per cent, plus $2.50 premium.

Latest Cotton Estimate

The latest cotton estimate is for a crop of 6,621,000 bales and is based on reports to Clement, Curtis & Co. of Chicago. It is figured that 92 per cent. of the crop has been picked.

BURDENS PILED ON FARM, SAYS SPILLANE

Time Nation Should Do Something to Aid Agriculture, Declares Expert

By RICHARD SPILLANE.

On the Road, Nov. 1.—"Did you ever become intimately acquainted with a dust storm in Texas?" asked an old man from the Mexia fields, in a train discussion.

They had one in Mexia while I was there—no, they had two. I thought for a time the whole State of Texas was being deposited in my vicinity. I'm still tender all about my face, neck and hands from the stings of the dust. Look at this suit of mine. There isn't a dry or a wet cleaner on earth that would get the dust out of it if he spent the rest of his life on the job. It is just saturated with dust, gentlemen, saturated with the Soil of Texas.

"I've taken a bath at every opportunity since the last dust storm, but I'm still dusty. It's in my eyelashes, in my ears, in my moustache, in my skin.

"I've read of dust storms on the Sahara Desert, but they can't compare with the ones I've known in Mexico. No, sir, I'm confident of that. I've had the real thing in dust storms and I know."

FACTS ABOUT FARMS.

The farm is the greatest industry in the world. In the last few years the American farm has had a severe experience. In part the agriculturist was to blame, but only in part.

For all the money and effort he puts into his enterprise the farmer on an average does not get a return of more than 5 per cent.

For the money he furnishes to the American farmer, the banker—and in this classification the mortgagee man, the factor and the various others who take part in the financing of the agricultural are included—get a return of about 10 per cent.

TWO BUSCH MONUMENTS.

While men are found in odd places. A ticket agent who has the rare talent of hard to please people at the same time being helpful and courteous to all is stationed at 13 Park Row, City Hall Square.

Adolphus Busch has left several monuments. Two of them are the Busch stadium in the baseball park and the Adolphus Hotel in Dallas. The gardens are a thing of beauty, but the beauty is somewhat marred by the beer bottles that the fairies hold in their hands.

The Adolphus Hotel is distinctive in having its first floor on three levels. What happens sometimes is that the sort to this peculiar scheme is difficult to understand, but today the person entering the hotel walks up various steps to get to the lobby and walks down a few more short flights of steps to get to the elevators to go upstairs.

WALL ST. GOSSIP

By MONITOR

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Reactionary influence dominated the stock market Monday after a session marked by irregularity and scattered instances of strength followed later by a general recession. Profit taking was largely responsible for the heavy tone of the general list but there were a few examples of weakness which served to produce an unsettled feeling. In the case of Mexican Petroleum heavy selling was prompted by several unconfirmed rumors, one to the effect that the objectionable export tax on oil might be enforced and another having reference to the company's production. Although confirmation was not forthcoming, this did not deter sellers from acting aggressively. Special weakness also was exhibited by both the common and preferred stocks of Wilson & Company and the Pierce Arrow issues.

In the early trading further advances were made by General Asphalt, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Royal Dutch and a few of the specialties, including Davison Chemical. Among the equipments Baldwin Locomotive was an outstanding feature.

THE market was quite unsettled in the late trading and the rise in call money did not help matters. The grave turn in the Irish controversy was not known in the market until after the close.

CONTINUATION of the irregularity which characterized Saturday's market was evident in Monday's dealings when certain specialties advanced to new high figures for the present movement, and other issues which substantial advances had occurred were subject to realizing sales and bear pressure. Mexican Petroleum was a striking feature, making new high for the present movement.

It was reported that the process which Davidson Chemical announced several months ago as being peculiarly adapted to oil refining has been acquired by Standard Oil interests. It is impossible to confirm this report, but the stock advanced more than five points before the general reaction set in.

From so-called inside sources reports have emanated recently that Atlantic Gulf & West Indies is in a difficult position. Brokers report, however, that recent sales of stock in a large scale have been made for interests identified with the company. The total world tonnage of tankers approximates 2,900,000 tons, Atlantic Gulf & West Indies owns 150,000 tons, and the Texas Company 156,000 tons. Shipping and oil circles a considerable amount of this class of tonnage is expected next year. Shrewd observers are of the opinion that Atlantic Gulf is being accumulated in anticipation of favorable developments during 1922.

American international was strong and there were plenty of buyers for such outstanding issues as came to the market. Weakness in Mexican issues. The holdings of this company in New York Shipbuilding Company are very large, and a considerable revival in shipbuilding is expected next year. This is one of the actuating motives for purchases at the present time, according to houses that are active in the stock.

Baldwin locomotive made a new high for the present movement at 92¾, and was reported as being well bought on the decline. The stock is in this respect somewhat similar to Studebaker, in that it has undergone a specialistic pool rather than to any fundamental changes in the position of the company.

Wilson & Co. stock broke more than five points. The selling is said to have originated in Cincinnati. There is a large floating supply of the stock in this liquidation and the offering of it automatically in small amount of stock found a ready market, with the resultant sharp decline.

There is excellent reason to believe that the merger of Royal Dutch and Shell Oil of Delaware will be announced within a few days. It is understood that directors of the Union Pacific Company will call a special meeting Wednesday to act on the proposal. Details of the plan are not known generally, but it is believed that a new holding company will be organized to take over the assets of the Union Oil Company of Delaware and the American assets of the Royal Dutch-Shell concern. It is understood that the Royal Dutch interest will control approximately 75 per cent of the stock of the new holding company and Union Oil 23 per cent.

A SHARP decline in Pierce Arrow preferred was attributed to selling by professionals on reductions in dividend rate made by motor manufacturers last week.

OIL IS CENTRE OF WESTERN TRADING

Evans Says Next Probable Incentive to New Business Is Steel Combine

By C. B. EVANS

Chicago, Nov. 1. — Everything among the speculators and investors here today centered on petroleum or the immediate members of its family.

The advanced prices of oil stocks has created a great many people who have been in a depressed state of mind for many months. The outlying Centers of Pittsburgh and Chicago, stating that the light oils of Mexico are in process of rapid exhaustion and the effect on the stocks in general, for the greater number of them are based on properties in this country. Mr. Guffey is recognized as a past master of the oil game.

The investor in the middle of the life is the stock of the Davison Chemical Company of Baltimore. This is an old concern in one form and another, and has built itself up to an assumed total of $20,000,000 without going in the affiliated companies.

"SILICA GEL" DID IT.

The direct provocative of the rise in the steel from 40¼ to 44¾ within a few days is the reports that "silica gel" is going to revolutionize the refining of oil. The process is used by Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in experimenting with it.

The boys' are buying the stock, though they have a very indefinite notion of what silica gel can do. The substance is, however, not new to persons familiar with chemistry. Conservative brokers do not advise purchase of the stock except as a flyer, although having entire respect for the company.

Some American companies have at least in some instances practically charged off their Mexican properties on account of the certainty that there is much salt water in wells on that country. The stronger companies can do this (without any great impairment of their resources," and if Mexico comes back as a great actual and steady producer they will have an asset that they do not now count on.

CREATIONS OF RESERVES.

A keen observer of such things remarks that, in view of the tax contingencies, some of the companies are doing a kind of charging off or at least accumulating surpluses against possible losses. The crude reserve, he says, against depreciation, maintenance, export tax of Mexico and the like, is something of this kind.

One may surely tolerate such a policy in view of the extraordinary risk of doing business in that country, the menace and actual performance of hard and fast rules for confiscation of European companies in the exploitation of Mexican oil, and the accumulation of large reserves against possible misfortune, which is the essence of all business sense, sometimes assumes a different appearance. Let us proceed to examine some of the companies along to examine a company's affairs.

AND STEEL COMBINE.

Considerable new life having been infused into the stock market, which is based on a growing conviction of the impossibility of delay, the time is considered opportune for the consummation of the promotions which have been in waiting for months.

A good observer says that the next thing to arouse speculative interest and tone up the whole community and marketwise will be the combination of independent steel companies.

There are just as many economic reasons for such a proposition today as there ever was, and so as the concern does not pass the dead line of actual control of the product and distribution of any article or articles the Government will not interfere.

ADVANCE IN PULLMAN.

Several issues other than the oil stocks are enlisting Western money. The new deal in the packing of Armkell & Barker Company by the Pullman Company appears to be going forward with unanimity. The opinion is the opinion of a man with many of the facts in his possession that the basis of the sale will be $70 per share instead of $75 as heretofore given out. The movement is reflected in the price of Pullman stock: that of the Haskell-Barker in the past few days has shown an advance of 5 points.

But not everything in the list of local interests is buoyant. The preferred stock of Wilson & Company, which has had a range this year of 73 to 90, slumped yesterday from 81 to 75. This, in face of the unquestioned improvement in the packing business. The railroads I hope, and the old guard who swore by them too many years, and have not ceased swearing—are feeling more rheumatism in their joints.

W. F. FITZGERALD SCORES PIRATES OF BUSINESS

Financial Thief, Political Crook and Labor Faker Blamed for Depression

"If you can't be human and a money maker too—then forget to be a money maker," declared William F. Fitzgerald, Boston financier, addressing the students of the Boston University College of Business Administration today at their assembly in Huntington Hall.

Mr. Fitzgerald has recently returned from a trip to Europe, where he studied the industrial conditions that prevailed in France, Belgium and Germany.

"What's Wrong With the World of Business" was Mr. Fitzgerald's topic, and, briefly, he defined the evil as "wrong thinking."

"Today," continued Mr. Fitzgerald, "we are reaping the seeds sown in our American business world by a sorry triumvirate—the financial thief, the political crook, and the labor faker. Each of these three, in times of swollen war prosperity, manipulated labor and capital and government—none of which should ever have been manipulated for their own advance, already gains.

"Today we quiescent voters, today we sleeping business men, are doing penance for these three, and for ourselves, in addition. People ask, on all sides, when these present days of retrenchment and shutdowns are to stop. I answer quite simply—just whenever people want them to stop.

"Today, many of those who would bring a remedy to our torn and twisted financial affairs are offering medicine that is a malignant operation.

"Here in our country we are too which alone will heal.

"Little scientific. Such a school as yours is one of the best signs of the times so far as I can interpret our times. For this school is dedicated to the principle that, after all, there is something to business besides what a man can learn in a week.

"I would like to see such schools as yours, however, even more of business laboratories than they are today. I would like a state of business education where men of affairs up against new problems could submit the facts to your business laboratories and have you dissect those facts, discuss them with your professors, come to a right solution. Then give your research to the business man who will carry out what your greater leisure has solved for him.

"When our present problems are met, they will finally be met by men who met them through right thinking. The human factor will do its share in settling strikes and returning equilibrium to a toppling world."

CALLS REFUND OF CANAL TOLLS BY U. S. LEGAL

French Engineer Suggests Way Nation Could Assist American Shipping

On Board the Steamer Lafayette, Nov. 1 (by Wireless via Paris to the Associated Press).—Tolls paid by American vessels using the Panama Canal could be refunded by the United States Treasury without infringing upon the treaty rights of any nation, Lieutenant-Colonel Philippe Bunau-Varilla, chief engineer of the Panama Canal under the French regime there, told the Associated Press last night.

He added these refunds should be from the treasury, and not from the receipts and surplus of the canal, and he said there was no reason why the British government could not refund tolls paid by vessels in transit from the eastern coast of Canada to the western ports of that country.

The British government has planned to have planned to raise the question of Panama tolls at Washington, he declared, but Lieutenant-Colonel Bunau-Varilla, who is one of the counsellors of the French delegation at the Washington conference, remarked the ePnama Canal was an essential part of the Pacific problem.

"The canal," he added, "is the gateway to Asia while subject, in consequence, matters relating to it could properly be brought before the conference."

He declared the canal was liable to be closed at any time by earthquakes. Also, in time of war could be attacked by airplanes and long range bombardment from isolated ships which had taken their range observations by daylight and then from behind smoke screens would fire. He said the great forts guarding the canal could reply only by firing aimlessly into the smoke without locating their targets.

Lieutenant Colonel Bunau-Vari feels strongl the urgency of converting the waterway from a canal into a strait. That is to a sea level canal of such width that it could not be closed by the sliding of a single caseil by a landslide or by the blowing up of a lock or some other part of the canal.

"I need not go into the technical detail, but I am convinced that by abandoning the railway and shovel fo powerful dredges, the cost of a sea level waterway of sufficient width to ask free from obstruction would not be excessive," he said.

MOTORMAN SHOCKED AND BURNED IN CHARLESTOWN

Motorman Joseph Michaiai was badly burned about the face and shocked when the ribbon fuse underneath his car grounded at the top of Bunker Hill, Charlestown. He is on the danger list at the City Hospital. He was bound from Medford to Adams square when the accident occurred. When he crawled underneath the car to repair the fuse, he forgot to shut off the power,

The Boston American $1,500 Name-This-Auto Test Competition is a test of skill and judgment open to every reader.

The pictures of fifty automobiles are to be printed, one each day. Participants are required to identify the makes of the different cars. They also are expected to write a letter, of not more than 100 words, along Walk Right-Drive Right lines.

The $1,500 will reward those readers who identify the largest number of automobiles and write the best letters. The first reward will be $500. There are ninety-four others.

The Rules of the Test, list of awards and scoring plan will be printed again as the opportunity may present itself.

FIRST PICTURE IN BOOK TITLE TEST MONDAY

$5,000 to Be Awarded at End of Sixty Days' Novel Entertainment

The $5,000 Book Title Picture Test begins next Monday.

What book?

That will be the daily question: "What book is represented by today's Test drawing?"

IS OPEN TO ALL.

One thousand dollars will be paid to the reader who, at the close of the Book Test, sends in the largest number of Correct Titles. There will be many other generous awards. A complete list of them will be printed next Monday, with Test Picture No. 1.

With the picture, every day, will be printed a List of Book Titles containing the Correct Title of the day's picture. It will be that title which "fits the picture better than any other in the List."

While this Book Test is wide open to everybody, regardless of age or place of residence, it is NOT a test for everybody. Those will excel in this contest who have a genuine knowledge of words and their meaning, or who are in a position to make generous use of the dictionary and other works of reference. This does not mean that you must "own a library," but it does mean that you may have to visit the People's Library.

And yet, we may be in error, for the artist says:

EASY, ARTIST PROMISES.

"These Book Title drawings will be the easiest I ever made for a newspaper contest. I think I have found a way to obviate all differences of opinion as to "best titles." That way is to make them easy. This Test should be the happiest ever."

Picture No. 1 in the Boston American's $5,000 Book Title Picture Test will be printed next Monday. Top prize, $1,000.

Tell the newsdealer NOW that you will want the Boston American next Monday and regularly every day thereafter until the close of the Book Test.

They have opened their headquarters at No. 188 Devonshire street with Sylvanus M. Bard as director and Allan Forbes, president of the State Street Trust, as treasurer. With them on the advisory board are Elmer J. Bliss, Louis A. Coolidge, Howard Coonley, John H. Johnson, Robert W. Maynard, Paul E. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. F. Lothrop Ames, Mrs. Edward J. Holmes, Frank M. Eshleman and Carl Dreyfus.

Men like ex-Governor John L. Bates have given themselves up temporarily to this drive. He knows well the work the Salvation Army has done and is doing in this city and State. General Charles H. Cole has volunteered his services. He knows what the "Sallies" did for the "doughboys" in France and he says, "I feel it is a privilege to help them in this emergency."

But the most practical evidence of this abiding interest in the Salvation Army is shown in the fact that 300 prominent citizens, actively engaged in some business or industrial enterprise in Boston, have volunteered their service and have organized specific committees to solicit among the various business or industrial groups represented by these volunteer chairmen.

Everybody, from Governor Cox and Mayor Peters all down the line, are interested in the success of this campaign. One of the most enthusiastic letters so far received by the committee is that of Secretary of War John W. Weeks, who says in part:

"The cause especially appeals to me, both as a citizen of Massachusetts and as Secretary of War. No agency in the city of Boston has accomplished more for the betterment of the community than the Salvation Army."

MRS. DeGRAF SINGS PRAISES OF THE PRUNE

The average Mrs. Housewife, dietitians and other, do not know how to properly cook such a simple dish as stewed prunes, according to Mrs. Belle DeGraf, nationally known domestic scientist.

There will probably be many a good housewife in New England who will take issue with Mrs. DeGraf's statement, but the latter declares she means every word of it.

She says there is no more delicious fruit served than the ever-favorite prune when it is cooked so that it makes a rich, thick, heavy sweet sugar syrup of its own.

BIDS $2.50 FOR WHAT LAWRENCE PAYS $6

Lawrence, Nov. 1.—During a meeting of the Lawrence City Council Patrick F. Ryan, in an effort to show that the city was paying exorbitant prices for crushed stone, asked the ton price and was informed that. He replied that the stone could be secured from a Lawrence concern for $2.50 per ton. Ryan was challenged and inside of an hour brought a contractor to the City Hall with a contract to supply at $2.50 per ton the stone the city was paying for at the rate of $6 a ton.

TEXTILE SHOW HAS WONDER MACHINES

"Dress Made While You Wait," From New Cotton to Finished Goods, Is Feature

The exhibit where "a dress is made while you wait" from the raw cotton to the finished product attracted the most attention from women at the International Textile Exposition at Mechanics building.

Another machine ties knots. Any bachelor who has tried to tie a knot in thread knows how elusive is the wispy thing, and has marveled at the expertness in the way women folks dispose of this problem. But the women, no matter how deft their fingers, are outclassed by a machine with steel fingers that tieg the knots. It ties them more matter-of-factly, accuracy at the rate of 250 a minute.

These exhibits are only two that appeal to the imagination. In the latman, for there are hundreds of others that do all kinds of wonderful and seemingly impossible things. The crowds who attended marveled at some of the features exhibited.

For the manufacturer and expert Mechanics Building is a paradise. The exhibition is said to be the largest and most comprehensive of its kind, the most up-to-date, display of textile machinery, mill supplies and power appliances that ever been assembled under one roof.

There are really three exhibitions in one. While cotton manufacturing machinery occupies the centre of interest, there are none the less important exhibitions of mill supplies and power appliances.

TO PLAN MEMORIAL FOR LOUISE IMOGENE GUINEY

Worcester, Nov. 1.—The Rev. Michael Earls, S. J., of Holy Cross College, will celebrate a memorial mass in Boston College Chapel Wednesday morning for Louise Imogene Guiney, who died in England a year ago. She was one of America's foremost poets. The mass will be public. After the services plans will be made to erect a memorial to her.

Miss Guiney donated the library to her father, Colonel Guiney of the famous Irish regiment in Civil War days, to Holy Cross College.

C. W. MORSE'S DAUGHTER TO WED CALIFORNIAN

New York, Nov. 1.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Morse of No. 225 West 34th street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Anna Elsie Morse, to Dr. John Casson Geiger of Hanford. Her father is president of C. W. Morse & Co., Broad street brokers. Dr. Geiger is connected with the Scientific Research Division of the United States Public Health Service.

MISS ELLSWORTH TO WED ARLINGTON MAN

John E. Ellsworth of Peterboro, N. ## Come to Faneuil Hall Tomorrow Night

There You Will Learn About the Great Struggle for Liberty Going on in India

As the great ships are bearing the statesmen of the world to Washington, where they will consider the reduction of the military establishments of the world and of pacifying conditions in the Far East, it becomes increasingly important that the American people should know what is going on in one of the greatest countries of the earth where lives one-fifth of the human race.

Concerning the conditions in India which are now big with possibilities for the peace of mankind, or of tremendous disturbance, the American people are being kept in Stygian darkness by British censorship and British control of the sources of world news. Only now and then do the ordinary people of the United States get a glimpse of the great events which are transpiring in India, and those glimpses come to us so infrequently, so far apart, and they reveal so little that we learn almost nothing from them.

Yet, concerning India the statesmen of Great Britain are more alarmed by far than they are alarmed by conditions in Ireland or anywhere else in the British Empire. India has been Great Britain's meal ticket for more than 150 years. England's prosperity began with the flow of that huge stream of wealth stolen from India after the battle of Plassey, 150 years ago. And every year since, India has been made to contribute to the wealth of Great Britain without any return. Every year since, the minds of the people of India have been darkened and they have been steadily impoverished until now famines, once more rare even than in Europe, are of regular occurrence in India.

The people of India have revolted and Great Britain, today, is trying to imitate that classical example of stoicism told in all our ancient histories, in which the Spartan boy allowed the stolen fox underneath his coat to tear out his very bowels, rather than cry out and reveal his theft. England came to terms with Russia, because she feared for India. She is coming to terms with Ireland, if she does, because she fears for India. She is afraid of what Irish sympathizers in this country might do to aid India.

The Japanese-English alliance is largely to insure Japanese aid in the retention of India. The whole strategy of the Far East will turn upon the struggle of that huge population to be free and the combinations which Great Britain can make to hold them down under the yoke which is destroying them little by little.

Americans are interested in this situation because they love liberty and have always been interested in the struggles of liberty everywhere. And also because it concerns the peace of the Pacific and concerns the combination of military countries having an interest in the Pacific, and concerns the peace and interest of the greatest continent of the world which is still undeveloped and where the future field of exploitation is to be.

In Faneuil Hall tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Friends of Freedom for India, a native of India, Mr. Taraknath Das, will discuss the Indian question. Professor Skinner of Tufts College will tell us something about the contribution which the people of India made to the culture of the world before Great Britain destroyed the power of India to contribute to anything. If you are interested in the cause of liberty anywhere in the British Empire, you must be interested in the cause of liberty in India, for British concessions to liberty anywhere comes through her fear for India. Everybody is invited to this meeting at Faneuil Hall.

Mrs. Baker Answers Babson

Hard to Understand His Statement That College Life Does Not Fit a Woman for Her "Main Business in Life"

Mrs. George Pierce Baker, wife of Professor Baker of Harvard, in her answer to Roger W. Babson's indictment of women's colleges, probably speaks the mind of all educated women, when she said that "college training gives the broad foundation on which to build the structure of life," and that it does not attempt especially to train women for family duties.

Mr. Babson's statement that college does not fit women for "their main business in life," which, he says, is "how to keep their husbands; how to keep their health; how to keep their money and that of their husbands, and how to keep their culture" is hard to understand.

Consider his first statement that college does not fit a woman to keep her husband. If trying to give a woman a high standard of moral and intellectual life, if trying to give her a taste for the beautiful things in life, if trying to give her an insight into human nature, if trying to give her a more tolerant attitude toward the weaknesses in human life, a sense of values and a sense of the importance of time and of straight thinking—if all these things do not fit a woman to keep her husband, what will?

Being fitted to take care of one's health is a matter of common sense. Whether a college woman or not a college woman, if she hasn't common sense she won't be fitted to take care of her health. The ability to take care of one's health comes from common sense and some knowledge of hygiene. The colleges teach hygiene.

As to the ability to take care of her money and that of her husband's—that is a question of character and temperament.

Mr. Babson's last statement that college training does not fit a woman to keep her culture is the hardest of all to understand. If college training does not do this, we wish Mr. Babson would tell us what would fit a woman to keep her culture. His explanation would be interesting

Foch and the Dry Law

Marshal Does Both Himself and This Country Honor by Observing Prohibition While Here

We are glad to hear that Marshal Foch will observe our prohibition law while in this country. It is a consideration for our institutions which does the country and Marshal Foch himself honor.

Ambassadors and foreign representatives are by custom exempt from the operation of the law, but it is always an act of courtesy which the people of the country appreciate when our laws are observed by those who come among us, even though it is not necessary to observe them.

"Hunger Law" in Vera Cruz

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 1.—Chambers of Commerce in Mexico are uniting in a campaign against the profit sharing or "hunger" law of Vera Cruz and in efforts to prevent the adoption of similar laws in other States.

This radical legislation has had a paralizing effect upon business and industry in the State of Vera Cruz, and opposers of the enactment and enforcement of such acts say that extension of the profit sharing idea to other regions would be a heavy blow to the progress of Mexico at a time when the outlook is more promising than it has been for the last ten years.

The Vera Cruz State Legislature is being urged to repeal the profit-sharing law. Some of the legislators, seeing the injury that the law has already done, are disposed to take this action, but others are held back through fear of losing the support of radicals who have voted them into office.

When the agitation against the profit-sharing law was started, the State was filled with idle men and their pressing need caused some to complain against the law, which they had at first hailed as a boon. Sentiment changed when the call came for thousands of men for work in the oil fields and at the terminals of the great oil-producing companies. Men who could not find work in shops and factories that were closed or operated at reduced output could easily secure positions elsewhere. These resumed their support of the demand for the strict enforcement of the profit-sharing law.

'Pussyfoot' Johnson in India

By Professor Taraknath Das

AMERICA saved the people of the Philippines from the menace of opium when the present chief justice of the United States Supreme Court and ex-President, William Howard Taft, became the governor-general of the Philippine Islands.

It was during his administration the Philippine Opium Commission was appointed and through the recommendations of that commission the opium menace has been banished from the islands. It was America, through her government officials and more so through the missionaries in China, that created public sentiment there regarding abolition of the opium traffic. It was the American missionaries and representatives who played the most commanding role in the international opium congress held in Shanghai, which caused the death-blow to British-Indian opium traffic in China.

To Save World

Now America has sent her greatest advocate of temperance and most pronounced enemy of liquor, opium and drugs, "Pussyfoot" Johnson, to India, not only to save India from the grip of opium and liquor, but to save America and the world from the ever-growing menace of opium, morphine and other by-products of opium which is threatening the moral fibre of humanity.

The total revenue of India for the year 1919-20 was $677,850,000, and out of this the government realized $78,715,500 from opium and liquor. In the year 1920-1921 the total revenue decreased to $674,139,500, but the revenue from liquor and opium increased to $83,080,000 (Statesman's Year Book 1921, page 133).

According to statistics of British India for 1918 "during the ten years ending 1916-17 the net receipts from the excise duties increased . . . at the rate of 47 per cent., the receipts from opium (consumed in India, not exported) being at the rate of 44 per cent. Regarding the net receipts from liquor and drugs other than opium . . . the increase is at the rate of 48 per cent. . . . The revenue from drugs (excluding opium) has risen in ten years . . . at the rate of 67 per cent." During the last forty-five years the revenue derived from liquor and opium has increased more than 500 per cent.

Indian opium is drugging America can be seen from the fact that the imports of opium containing 9 per cent and over of morphia in the United States for the year 1918-19 was 345,514 pounds and for the year 1919 the opium import was 623,896 pounds, showing an increase of 283,382 pounds.

All Indian Congress Committee, under the leadership of Mahatma Gandhi and others, has adopted measures of boycotting liquor and opium. Many students picketing have been arrested by the government and sent to jail. Indian people are anxious to enforce prohibition through local option, but the government opposes it on the ground of loss of revenue. But Pussyfoot Johnson in his message to Indian people says:

"America became convinced that it is a ghastly thing to raise public revenue out of undoing of our sons and daughters: that it is a monstrous thing to license the business of destroying our homes, filling our gaols and wrecking the lives of our fellowmen in order to raise money for public expenditure. . . . It is the destiny of this generation to put an end forever to the business of the drink-seller. His victims have supported him long enough. Let him now turn to some honest occupation and earn his own living in India as elsewhere."

Won the People

This attitude of Mr. Johnson has won for him the heart of the Indian people and thus he has been accorded a different reception in India by people of all classes than he met with in England, where he lost one of his eyes, torn out by an enlightened mob resenting the idea of prohibition.

All India Congress Committee has already issued a special order to the nation that the visit of the Prince of Wales be boycotted, but Mr. Johnson is being accorded a princely reception by the people.

Indian people have no real voice in controlling their destinies, and they want to establish a republic in their own land so that they may be able to contribute their share to the cause of world progress. In a mass meeting to support a republic in India, to be held at Faneuil Hall on Wednesday, India's struggle for moral emancipation will be discussed by most competent scholars.

Letter to the Editor

U. S. and World Trade

Editor Boston American:

Today the intelligence of the nation is directed to the change in conditions from prosperity to depression. And in the newspapers, periodicals, etc., we meet the pet theories of the economists and director generals of business.

"The Balance of Trade," the apparition in the minds of the many; and the "Cheap Products of Germany," these coupled with many imaginative conditions are heralded and the citizen is told that American business has its back to the wall.

How does a German business pay with low wages and low costs together with high taxes offsetting these gains? How do the people of Germany live who labor for low wages? The strange fact is that German conditions as far as the people so are good and they are comfortable with their low wages, in direct contrast with this country. Who is to blame? The German people are not starving and few are unemployed.

Distribution and necessity costs in the U. S. A. are greater than those in Germany. The Government of the U. S. A. is allowing conditions that are responsible for its depression and corrective measures are surely within the scope of the law.

"The Balance of Trade"—"The Success of Europe"—"The Tariff on Imports" etc., are not factors for our success. Our success is outlined for us by a study of our affairs, the betterment of our conditions the usefulness of our labor—"not their wages", the product of our soil, the uplifting and education our peoples, the continuing of our ideals and with the success of these will come the greater U. S. A.

TREAT CHILD GENIUSES LIKE THE OTHERS

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1921, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

THE little boy who is such a movie success writes to a newspaper man appealing for consideration. Someone has written his father, he says, asking that the boy write a three-thousand-word story for the papers. And the poor child doesn't want to write—it's hard work for him, and, besides, he needs the time for play.

And he wants to play, the child, and he ought to be allowed to play while he is young.

There is nothing more pitiful than the child made old and responsible before his time. The records of genius have many a page showing the martyrdom of little ones when they should have been given the real things of childhood.

I remember a genius of the violin, a girl of fourteen, who was under the tyrannical hand of an ambitious mother. This girl was not in school and she had no young companions. A governess taught her the things she had to know from schoolbooks, and all her time not spent over the schoolbooks was given to lessons and practice on the violin.

When she was about sixteen years of age, her mother took her to play for Theodore Thomas. The great conductor listened attentively and said words of encouragement and kindness to the girl—but he asked to speak to the mother alone.

Mother Would Not Heed

"Your daughter is a musical genius," he said. "But she needs to live a normal, natural life. She should have young companions in an out-of-door life, the genuine life of a young girl. No matter how much musical experience you give her, she cannot do well unless she has the life to draw from when she plays the violin. She must love and she must doubt, and fear and rejoice with the rest of the human family, before she can play as she should. She must live!"

The mother saw nothing in this advice. She remembered only the words of praise said by the great musician to her child. On she went with the artificial life she had adopted for her daughter. The girl lived to gain a certain success as a musician, but she never reached first place in her profession. And once, when she was speaking of her life, she said sadly:

"I never knew what play was even as a child, and I had lost the capacity for joy before its opportunity came to me."

The saddest face I know is that of a lawyer of national renown. He smiles sometimes, and his wit is such as makes others smile, but his sombre views of life make one turn away from him with a sort of terror so saddening they are.

The man wrote the record of his boyhood days not long ago, and the unhappy truth appeared that he never had a boyhood. The childhood to which all are entitled never came his way. There was not a glint of real sunshine in his early life, and he had not that within which could make sunshine in a shady place.

There is nothing sadder than the taking of gladness from the heart and life of a child.

Do you remember the tiny girl who used to play in public on her violin? A violin made for her small figure and baby hands. Evening after evening this little child played before crowded houses, and the theatre was her place of abode—theatre and hotel, hotel and concert hall. Grasping parents were her only companions.

An Unforgotten Sacrifice

Put me in my little bed,
Put me in my little bed.

So sang the little fiddle as the child bent over it, heavy-eyed with fatigue. The scene affected almost everyone of the careless audience. That night, at her hotel, the little girl—she was not more than seven years of age—died.

The sacrifice was not forgotten. It initiated the agitation for the protection of stage children. Such a thing could not happen in theatre life now. But in private life there are many child geniuses whose rights are not looked out for.

Surely there must be enough wise and happy ways to bring up the favorites of the gods, without sacrificing all their childish happiness to ambition and greed.

ASSOCIATE WITH YOUR SUPERIOR DAILY

By Dr. Charles Fleischer.

CURIOUS, that most good advice may be equally bad!

Here is this, for instance, which was frequently given by the late Dr. Edward Everett Hale, advising you to associate every day with some one who is your superior.

That pursuit might easily make an insufferable snob of you. Snobbish in both directions, perhaps; foolishly seeking those who are financially and socially beyond you; and, because of your desperate aspiration, looking down upon those who are not so much interested in "climbing" as you are!

In fact, to Ralph Waldo Emerson, the lofty New England seer, it seemed so contemptible that he is said to have gently checked his wife, when one day she referred to a certain fellow townswoman of Concord as a snob.

Bad Beginning

"Well, she is a snob," asserted Mrs. Emerson. "I wish you would not use that epithet, or any other beginning with sin," said the poet. Think of a few of them yourself—sneak, snake, snarl, snip, etc., etc.

"What shall I call her, then?" asked the good wife, helplessly. "Don't call her anything," suggested the friendly philosopher; "but say, if you will, that she has a profound sympathy with success."

So generous a characterization of snobbishness almost restores it to respectability. For it is right that we should sympathize with success, and so profoundly as to seek association therewith.

Something of that sort Dr. Hale had in mind with his helpful advice; namely, that we undertake, consciously and continuously, to gain the company of those who are farther along in the common road.

All of which is obviously desirable, whether regarded from the moral, the psychological or the material viewpoint. The shorter, whether with gun or stone or sword will tell you you must aim above the game in order to approach it.

The poet will tell you that a man's reach must exceed his grasp, and he makes that the very meaning of Heaven. And the Bible begs you to be perfect as God is perfect, knowing how far short we are sure to fall.

Indeed, the Greeks rightly called Man, the Upward Looking, because our orbs habitually roll upward. That distinguishing physical fact the human race has translated into an alluring spiritual ideal, so that we have learned to make prompt response to every call to the heights.

Associate daily with your superior! We used to say playfully of Dr. Hale that he could not easily have practiced his own preachment. Which he, modest man, would have resented as foolish, if we had ever faced him with his difficulty.

Doubtless, he would have pointed to his book shelves, and we would have seen that while the words of Jesus, Isaiah, Moses, Buddha, Confucius, Plato, Aristotle, Socrates, Seneca, Aurelius, Dante, Shakespeare and Goethe were available, the greatest of our time need not lack even greater companions.

Easily Followed

For most of us, such good advice is easily enough followed, if only we maintain our simple modesty. Probably none of us is a paragon of perfection, so that we can readily find the person who, in some particular at least, is our superior.

And that is not likely to be the one who puts on braggart airs or wears the mask of self-conceit.

Possibly, yonder unassuming policeman, who has been patrolling his beat for thirty years, has on his daily rounds and in his lonely vigils, stored up more practical and warm, human wisdom than most of the accredited preachers.

The writer knows such a one, and whenever he meets that friendly patrolman he feels that he might do worse than look to him for guidance in order to follow Dr. Hale's advice.

It is an American habit, one of the incidental defects of the quality of democracy, which allows most of us to go strutting about with the almost spoken assertion: I am as good as you are—and, if the truth were known, I'm just a little bit better!

Well, perhaps, you are! Then you should move on and seek further to find your superior. Be sure you will find him if you seek!

Yes, he will allow you to associate with him. For if he is really superior he will as surely be humble.
